Shakeup Of U.S. Agencies Urged

Bristling Report Charges Outside Pressure, Politics

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy released Monday night with commendatory comment a bristling report that says federal regulatory agencies are afflicted with outside pressure, political appointees and a lack of concern by Presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

The report, which recommends a massive shake-up and reorganization of the agencies, is the product of James M. Landis, former Harvard Law School dean and former member of chairman of several of the agencies involved.

It speaks of "Alice-in-Wonderland procedures" of drifting and stalling, of costly delays in getting the work done.

Kennedy is expected to use it as the basis for action and recommendations of his own. Legislation will be required.

The report brings Truman and Eisenhower in unmistakably but not by name.

Airline Route Lobbying Hit

It says with relation to the awarding of overseas airline routes that "lobbying in its worst sense" has been prevalent since 1948 around mystery-shrouded approaches to the White House.

It says that in this field there has been in the last two administrations a notable lack of presidential self-restraint in avoiding outside influences.

And it says of regulatory agencies in general that for the last decade "the executive appears to have had no real concern with their operation." A decade covers most of Eisenhower's administration and two years of Truman's.

It was on assignment from Kennedy that Landis surveyed the agencies, picked out what he considers their faults, and proposed remedies. The Civil Aeronautics Board, which Landis once headed, and the federal power, communications and interstate commissions were particular targets.

On Christmas Day, the Stanleyville rebels, supporters of ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba, stormed into Bukavu, Kivu's capital.

Reports reaching U.N. headquarters here Monday said they seized Jean Mirhuo, provincial president, and a number of his ministers. The prisoners were carried off in the direction of Stanleyville, 400 miles northwest of Bukavu.

The raid was carried out by 60 military police traveling in trucks under orders from Antoine Gizenga, pro-Communist rebel leader who claims to be the Congo's legal premier. He was vice premier under Lumumba.

Loyalties in Kivu have for some time been flickering between Gizenga and Mobutu. The balance tipped toward Gizenga recently after Nigerian troops of the United Nations killed 10 Congolese soldiers in a battle to free a group of Austrian hospital personnel who had been arrested in Bukavu.

Mobutu was planning a prestige visit to Kivu with President Joseph Kasavubu in the near future. His aides would not say whether the visit still is scheduled.

Pro-Red Congo Rebels Abduct Kivu President

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Pro-Communist rebels in Stanleyville are believed to be trying to extend their control to another province with the kidnapping of the provincial president of Kivu and several of his ministers.

An extension of rebel power to Kivu would leave the pro-Western government of Col. Joseph Mobutu with nominal control of only Leopoldville and Equator provinces and part of Katal among the Congo's six provinces.

The rest of Kasai and Katanga provinces have broken away under Katanga President Moïse Tshombe. The leftist rebels hold sway in Oriental Province, which lies north of Kivu.

Stern Section Of Tanker Due In Port Today

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The arrival time of the stern section of the storm-broken American tanker Pine Ridge was delayed again Monday.

Capt. J. A. Williamson, skipper of the tug Lamberts Point, told a Newport News radio station—WGH—by radio telephone he does not expect to bring the stern to the Newport News shipyards until 7 a.m. Tuesday.

Williamson said he received "hold" orders not to bring the stern in before 7 a.m. even if he arrives in Hampton Roads earlier.

Questioned about Christmas at sea, Williamson said, "The men on my tug had the traditional big turkey dinner, but otherwise the day was observed like any other working day."

He said he had not been aboard the stern section, but said a portable radio had been placed aboard the hulk so the tug could communicate with Chief Engineer John Richard of Wilmington, Del.

Williamson said Richard and the chief salvage officer of Merrick, Chapman & Scott said they have steam heat and electricity. He surmised they could cook, and, "I imagine for Christmas dinner they fared about as well as we did."

Richard is one of 29 crewmen who survived when the Pine Ridge broke in two in heavy seas last Wednesday 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras, N.C. The other 28 were lifted from the stern section Thursday by helicopters from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge and reached shore Friday.

Seven crew members, including Capt. Clark Snyder, 44, of Haverford, Pa., are missing and presumed dead.

Yule Traffic Death Rate Dips Slightly

Average Drops Below Six An Hour In Waning Hours

By The Associated Press
Traffic fatalities on the nation's highways continued to trace a pattern of tragedy in the final hours of the Christmas holiday weekend.

Despite a slight decline in the death rate during the waning hours, the National Safety Council estimated the final toll would reach 510. The period, which started at 6 p.m. Friday, ends at midnight local time Monday.

By 10 p.m. EST, 427 deaths were reported in highway accidents, 73 lives were claimed by fires, and 74 by miscellaneous accidents for a total of 574.

Some Roads Hazardous
Late Monday, as motorists headed homeward over roads made hazardous in some sections by rain and ice, the death rate dipped to below six an hour. The NSC preholiday estimate was based on a probable rate of six or more fatalities an hour.

The traffic toll in a comparable 78-hour period last Christmas was 493, an average of about six deaths an hour.

The record traffic and over-all toll for a three-day Christmas holiday was set in 1955. Traffic took 609 lives, fires 68 and miscellaneous causes 105 for a total of 782.

Six Killed In One Crash
Six persons were killed Monday night in one of the worst highway tragedies when two cars crashed on a darkened desert road near Boron, in Southern California.

Four others died in a head-on collision near Fairview, Kan.

For comparative purposes, the Associated Press made a survey of violent deaths for a 78-hour non-holiday period, from 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 9, to midnight Dec. 12.

It showed 293 traffic deaths, 47 by fires and 113 in the miscellaneous bracket, the large last figure being attributed to storms in the eastern half of the country.

Then as if to show Peiping his kind of communism works, Tito told Parliament the new five-year economic plan will turn Yugoslavia into an advanced country and make life for its people easier and better.

The efforts demanded by the plan, he said, "will not be made at the cost of various privations or of halting the tempo of the rise in the standard of living, as was necessary in the first phase of postwar development."

Communist China, organizing its economy for rapid development with almost military severity, has been the most persistent critic of Yugoslavia. Tito's brand of communism allows greater personal freedom than in any other Communist nation and follows a line independent from Moscow in foreign affairs.

At last month's Moscow meeting of 81 world Communist parties—not including Yugoslavia—a final communique assailed Yugoslavia's policies, which Communists call "revisionism."

Yugoslav Communists feel the attack on them was included to placate the Chinese and obtain Peiping's agreement to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policies.

Tito called this a "rotten compromise" and said the communist represented "interference in our internal affairs and misrepresentation of reality in our development and our foreign policies."

A European was killed and his wife was injured at Oran by rock-throwing Algerians who attacked them as they left their home. A 28-year-old Moroccan was attacked Monday night and seriously wounded by hatchet blows. About a dozen other Europeans were hurt by flying stones.

Riot police were placed on roofs in the troubled area and there are heavy military patrols throughout Oran. Some Algerians were arrested.

Officials blamed the new trouble on the rebel National Liberation Front and said rebel-inspired Moslem demonstrations had "prompted the Europeans to react."

Tito Blames China For Red Summit Attack

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Red China of engineering the attacks at last month's Communist summit conference on Yugoslavia's independent brand of communism.

340 New Year's Highway Deaths Loom, NSC Says

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council estimated Monday that 340 persons will be killed in New Year's weekend traffic accidents unless "extra caution and common sense" cut the toll.

The council's estimate was far below the 510 expected deaths over the deadlier Christmas holiday. The 340 total was also only 30 above the average of 310 traffic deaths which could be expected over a non-holiday 78-hour period.

But it was perilously close to the New Year's record of 370 deaths set during last year's three-day holiday.

Reports reaching U.N. headquarters here Monday said they seized Jean Miruho, provincial president, and a number of his ministers. The prisoners were carried off in the direction of Stanleyville, 400 miles northwest of Bukavu.

The raid was carried out by 60 military police traveling in trucks under orders from Antoine Gizenga, pro-Communist rebel leader who claims to be the Congo's legal premier. He was vice premier under Lumumba.

Loyalities in Kivu have for some time been flickering between Gizenga and Mobutu. The balance tipped toward Gizenga recently after Nigerian troops of the United Nations killed 10 Congolese soldiers in a battle to free a group of Austrian hospital personnel who had been arrested in Bukavu.

Lankford Assured
Vinson's Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post said Monday chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee is ready to back Rep. Richard E. Lankford, D-Md., for Asst. Secretary of the Navy.

"I'll be behind him 100 per cent if he's really serious about it," Vinson was quoted.

Lankford, who was elected to a fourth House term last month, is understood to have written to President-elect John F. Kennedy expressing interest in the post of Asst. Secretary of the Navy or Materiel, which includes supervision over many shore establishments. Lankford has been active in efforts to continue the Naval Weapons Plant here in some form of production.

Time's 'Men Of Year'

NEW YORK (AP)—Time magazine Monday selected the nation's scientists as the "Men of the Year" who dominated the news in 1960.

It marked the first time since 1937 the magazine has chosen more than one person for leaving an indelible mark on the news during the year. Gen. and Mme. Chiang Kai-shek shared the "Man of the Year" cover then.

Yule Traffic
Death Rate
Dips Slightly

Average Drops
Below Six An Hour
In Waning Hours

By The Associated Press

Traffic fatalities on the nation's highways continued to "trace a pattern of tragedy in the final hours of the Christmas holiday weekend.

Despite a slight decline in the death rate during the waning hours, the National Safety Council estimated the final toll would reach 510. The period, which started at 6 p.m. Friday, ends at midnight local time Monday.

By 10 p.m. EST, 427 deaths were reported in highway accidents, 73 lives were claimed by fires, and 74 by miscellaneous accidents for a total of 574.

Some Roads Hazardous

Late Monday, as motorists headed homeward over roads made hazardous in some sections by rain and ice, the death rate dipped to below six an hour. The NSC preholiday estimate was based on a probable rate of six or more fatalities an hour.

The traffic toll in a comparable 78-hour period last Christmas was 493, an average of about six deaths an hour.

The record traffic and over-all toll for a three-day Christmas holiday was set in 1955. Traffic took 609 lives, fires 68 and miscellaneous causes 105 for a total of 782.

Six Killed In One Crash

Six persons were killed Monday night in one of the worst highway tragedies when two cars crashed on a darkened desert road near Boron, in Southern California. Four others died in a head-on collision near Fairview, Kan.

For comparative purposes, the Associated Press made a survey of violent deaths for a 78-hour holiday period, from 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 9, to midnight Dec. 12.

It showed 293 traffic deaths, 47 by fires and 113 in the miscellaneous bracket, the large last figure being attributed to storms in the eastern half of the country.

Clashes Raise
Algeria Tension

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — French authorities Monday night warned that continued clashes between European settlers and Algerians would lead to Algeria's ruin.

The warning was issued by a government spokesman after a day of tension in which Algerians and Europeans clashed intermittently in Oran, Algeria's second city.

Officials blamed the new trouble on the rebel National Liberation Front and said rebel-inspired Moslem demonstrations had "prompted the Europeans to react."

A European was killed and his wife was injured at Oran by rock-throwing Algerians who attacked them as they left their home. A 26-year-old European was attacked Monday night and seriously wounded by hatchet blows. About a dozen other Europeans were hurt by flying stones.

Riot police were placed on roofs in the troubled area and there are heavy military patrols throughout Oran. Some Algerians were arrested.

Tito Blames
China For Red
Summit Attack

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito Monday accused Red China of engineering the attacks at last month's Communist summit conference on Yugoslavia's independent brand of communism.

Then as if to show Peiping his kind of communism works, Tito told Parliament the new five-year economic plan will turn Yugoslavia into an advanced country and make life for its people easier and better.

The efforts demanded by the plan, he said, "will not be made at the cost of various privations or of halting the tempo of the rise in the standard of living, as was necessary in the first phase of postwar development."

Communist China, organizing its economy for rapid development with almost military severity, has been the most persistent critic of Yugoslavia. Tito's brand of communism allows greater personal freedom than in any other Communist nation and follows a line independent from Moscow in foreign affairs.

At last month's Moscow meeting of 81 world Communist parties—not including Yugoslavia—a final communique assailed Yugoslavia's policies, which Communists call "revisionism."

Yugoslav Communists feel the attack on them was included to placate the Chinese and obtain Peiping's agreement to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policies.

Tito called this a "rotten compromise" and said the communique represented "interference in our internal affairs and misrepresentation of reality in our development and our foreign policies."

Liz Taylor, Lancaster
Top Film Daily Poll

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor was honored for the best feminine performance of 1960 in "Butterfield 8"—a role she once spurned—in the Film Daily "famous fives" poll announced Monday.

Burt Lancaster received the most votes for the best male performance in his portrayal of the revival preacher in "Elmer Gantry." Results of the poll were announced by the film daily. Ballots were sent to 1,850 news and broadcast reviewers and critics.

Other leaders included: Best supporting actor, Arthur Kennedy; "Elmer Gantry," supporting actress, Shirley Jones; "Elmer Gantry," juvenile actor, Kevin Corcoran; "Toby Tyler," and juvenile actress, Hayley Mills, "Pollyanna."

65 Seized In Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—An official of Turkey's ruling military junta reported Monday night that 65 persons were arrested over the weekend and charged with anti-government propaganda activities. Col. Baha Karatay said all 65 are members of the discredited Democrat party of ousted Premier Adnan Menderes.

340 New Year's
Highway Deaths
Loom, NSC Says

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council estimated Monday that 340 persons will be killed in New Year's weekend traffic accidents unless "extra caution and common sense" cut the toll.

The council's estimate was far below the 510 expected deaths over the deadlier Christmas holiday. The 340 total was also only 30 above the average of 310 traffic deaths which could be expected over a non-holiday 78-hour period.

But it was perilously close to the New Year's record of 370 deaths set during last year's three-day holiday.

East Warmup
Will Be Brief

By United Press International
Snow flurries and colder air pushed across the Midwest Monday and headed toward northern New England.

Colder readings overspread much of the Mississippi Valley Monday night and were expected in most of the Atlantic states Tuesday. Most noon temperatures were below freezing in the area with a low of one above zero reported at Grand Forks, N.D.

Sunshine warmed much of the eastern seaboard and the nation's southern sections, pushing readings to 73 in Miami, 67 in Los Angeles. Temperatures in the 40s and 50s were common.

Moist air flowing from the Pacific brought intermittent rain to the Washington and Oregon coastal regions, changing to snow in mountain areas. Scattered snow also was reported in northern and central areas of the Rockies.

Occasional rain or drizzle also fell from the Ohio Valley into the southern Appalachians.

MacArthur's Mementoes
To Be Housed In Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur has accepted an invitation from Norfolk to place his war mementoes, decorations and papers in a MacArthur memorial this naval city will establish.

MacArthur has various ties with Norfolk. His mother was born and married here and he became the city's first honorary citizen.

The invitation was extended last month. The general of the Army said he accepted it as a great honor.

MacArthur also requested that he and his wife be buried in Norfolk, which houses the world's largest Navy base.

The city said Monday it will renovate its 111-year-old courthouse—soon to be vacated—at a cost of nearly half a million dollars. Other tentative plans call for landscaping the courthouse block

Kennedy, Key
Consultants
Air Problems

President-Elect
Plans To Shift His Base To New York

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy took a long, searching look Monday for ways to strengthen the U.S. space program and the operations of the State Department abroad.

Separate conferences originally scheduled with key consultants on these two topics were combined into one. It went on for hours at Kennedy's seaside villa, with some interruptions. No conclusions or details were disclosed.

Kennedy contends the space program has been lagging. Rival civilian and military roles in this field were up for discussion.

As one means of providing improved diplomatic representation overseas, associates say Kennedy favors larger expense allowances for ambassadors. They frequently have to go deep into their own pockets to provide entertainment and a show of American hospitality. This has led to criticism that only wealthy men can be picked for major diplomatic assignments.

Kennedy is particularly aware of the issue because his own father is a former ambassador to Great Britain.

Rooney At Conference

One of Kennedy's consultants was Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y. As chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee handling State Department funds, he has been for years an unrelenting foe of increases in what he calls booze allowances.

Sitting in on the conference, too, were Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., and Douglas Dillon, who will be secretary of the Treasury in the Kennedy administration.

This lineup represented a considerable intertwining of interests—Johnson and Kerr in the space field; Johnson, Rooney and Dillon in the area of State Department finances.

Johnson is chairman of the Senate subcommittee concerned with State Department funds and Dillon still is undersecretary of state in the present administration.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, would say only that the discussions centered on "strengthening of the American space program and the subject of strengthening the State Department, particularly its representation abroad." He dodged questions as to whether expense funds for ambassadors came up.

Kennedy To Shift Base

These funds are a particular problem in such major embassies as those in London, Paris and Rome.

The consultants all had lunch together. Kennedy, Johnson and Dillon played an abbreviated round of golf in the afternoon. And then the conference resumed. Johnson, Kerr and Rooney arranged to stay on at a Palm Beach hotel overnight.

During the day, Kennedy decided that he will head north to the 87th Congress will be based on how far they advance beyond the political routine of good housekeeping and start to cultivate the strains of quality by which the society can be rescued from mediocrity.

"Statesmanship will be tested by how far the frontier of excellence is penetrated."

The NCEC was set up in 1948 to provide support and financing of campaigns for congressional candidates it considered liberal and world-minded. It also had its targets, including the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis.

Slaying Suspect Drives Car Over Cliff In Suicide

FORT FORT, N.C. (UPI)—A $15,000-a-year executive, suspected in the slaying of a New York department store heir, apparently committed suicide by driving his automobile over a 500-foot cliff, authorities said Monday.

The frozen body of a man found in the wreckage of the automobile was identified as Dan Wexler, 46, who had been sought for questioning in the slaying of Gene Kaufman, 42-year-old assistant treasurer of the Deejay Stores located in the New York City area.

Wexler, who authorities said had threatened to "get" Kaufman because of a dispute over money, disappeared the day that Kaufman was cut down at a Harrison, N.Y., railroad station by three pistol bullets.

Police said relatives of Wexler received telephone calls from him when he was "somewhere in the Carolinas." They quoted him as saying he was in "serious trouble" and did not know what he was going to do.

Police said Wexler apparently decided to kill himself and drove his auto over the cliff.

Wexler was fired as supervisor of several stores in the Deejay chain, allegedly for incompetence, shortly before Kaufman was slain Dec. 16.

Authorities said the two men quarreled over a full year's salary of $15,000 which Wexler said was owed him despite the fact he had worked for the stores for only five months.

Wexler's body was found last

China Making Vast Strides In Technology

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—Communist China is making efficient use of science in her bid for top-rank position among nations, Western scientists reported Monday.

A dozen experts spelled out China's progress in science and technology in the 10 years since the Communists came to power. And, generally, they found it impressive.

In another 10 years, some said, Chinese scientists in several fields could rank with the best in the Western world.

China is approaching the United States in coal production, having expanded her output six to sevenfold, said Dr. Kung-ping Wang, Far East specialist of the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

In iron and steel production, hiked six-fold, China may become the world's third largest producer by 1970, he added.

From 200 geologists in 1950, China now reports having 21,000 geological workers, and has announced many large new mineral discoveries, said Edward C. T. Chao of the U.S. Geological Survey in Washington.

Chemistry has been stressed as one wheel to propel the long-slumbering country of 600 million into a first-class power, said Dr. Arthur Yu of Thiokol Chemical Corp., Trenton, N.J.

In one phase of biochemical research, he added, Chinese scientists are studying human food needs and life processes at high altitudes.

"But whether this has anything to do with putting a man up in a satellite, I do not know," he told a symposium on China at first-day sessions of the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Hazardous Fuel Reported Used In Airline Jets

LONDON (AP) — A world authority on aviation safety Monday accused major airlines of hushing up their use of a highly explosive jet fuel.

The new fuel is called JP4 and is a mixture of gasoline and kerosene. It is used by a growing number of airlines. The jets formerly used the less explosive kerosene.

The complaint came from Lord Brabazon of Tara, 76-year-old chairman of the British Air Registration Board who was decorated by Queen Elizabeth II in 1953 for his service to civil aviation.

"It is patently clear," he said, "that the desire to use JP4 is based on money making."

Brabazon made the charge in a letter to Sir William Hildred, director general of the International Air Transport Association, which represents the major airlines.

In addition he made public an earlier letter from Hildred accusing him of putting dangerous statements before "emotional millions."

The argument started with a recent television program in which Brabazon made experiments to demonstrate that JP4 ignites like a flash while kerosene takes time to get burning.

Hildred said this telecast had been discussed by the International Air Transport Association's technical committee, who branded it "harmful to the worldwide airline industry."

"Supposing you were absolutely right in your views, is it good to ventilate those views before 8 million sweaty night caps (the television audience)," Hildred wrote.

"What does it avail you? With your enormous prestige is it not better to hammer those views out with technical people rather than to make dangerous statements to the emotional millions?"

Brabazon replied that no conference of experts could dispute his contention that JP4 flashes into a bonfire on ignition while kerosene does not.

Brabazon did not cite any actual crashes in planes using the new fuel and so far as is known here none has occurred.

La Paz Police Probe Anti-U.S. Bombing

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Police have begun an investigation of the dynamite bombing of the U.S. Embassy resident.

But an embassy spokesman said Monday the government has sent no expression of regret nor disclosed any measures to prevent further anti-U.S. acts. The bomb broke several windows Christmas Eve but caused no injuries.

Embassy officials said they feel the bombing is part of an intense campaign by Communists and other anti-U.S. elements in Bolivia, a nation that has been getting about $20 million annually in aid from Washington.

U.S. Ambassador Carl Strom was stoned by leftists last month in Cochabamba, second largest city in Bolivia.

Police said it would be difficult to run down the bombers because the bomb exploded in the din of Christmas Eve fireworks and apparently no one in the streets noticed anything wrong at the embassy residence.

Goldfine Reexam Slated

BOSTON (AP) — The government may move for a reexamination of Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine on his competency to stand trial on income tax evasion indictments, U.S. Atty. Elliott Richardson disclosed Monday night.

Richardson said he filed the motion Dec. 8, but said he isn't certain when, or whether, it will come up for hearing. His next move, he said, would be to advise the court the government wishes to proceed on the motion.

Solomon took him to a downtown hotel suite. The next day Newton police disclosed they were called to Goldfine's home at 72 Beacon St. in the Chestnut Hill section, because of what they described as an hysterical argument followed over where Goldfine was to go.

Goldfine's trial on indictments charging evasion of $790,000 in personal and corporate income taxes was put off when it was ruled he was mentally incompetent to stand trial. U.S. Judge George C. Sweeney of Boston ordered Goldfine into the custody of the U.S. marshal for treatment.

Washington Judge George L. Hart Jr. released Goldfine for private psychiatric care in custody of his son, Solomon, of Scarsdale, N.Y., last week.

Additive Prevents AF Jet Fuel Icing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has approved the use of a new chemical additive to prevent ice from forming in aircraft jet fuel systems.

It is approved for immediate use by the Strategic Air Command and possibly by other commands at a later date.

The additive, developed by Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., is called PFA 55MB. It may also be used in those guided missiles that burn jet fuels.

An Air Force study in 1958, following the mysterious crash of a $5.5-million B52 jet bomber in South Dakota, estimated that almost 40 jet planes had been lost because of fuel icing.

Eight Accidental Deaths Mar Holiday In Maryland

By The Associated Press

The Christmas weekend in Maryland was marred by at least eight accidental deaths, six on the highways and two by fire.

The traffic deaths boosted Maryland's 1960 highway fatality toll to 502, 12 less than on the same date last year.

The 499th and 500th victims were Henry Hogue, 40, of Baltimore and Ernest Lynch, 40, of Washington, killed when their car went out of control on the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway Sunday and overturned.

Other traffic victims included: Lina Leopold, 17, of Frederick, killed Saturday when a car veered out of control on the Baltimore-Washington Parkway near the Kenilworth Avenue interchange, throwing her to the ground.

Thomas Davis Robinson, 20, of Jessup, killed Friday night when his car collided with another auto on Maryland 193 at Wheaton.

Mrs. Richard Strawbridge, 45, of Pylesville, killed Saturday in a two-car collision in Harford County.

The fire victims were: Sherrell Walker Jr., 4, who died Saturday when fire swept his home at Bowie.

George Coates, 40, who perished

Saturday when fire destroyed his home near Hollywood, Md.

Cold Weather Due To Return

By The Associated Press

The warmer weather Marylanders got for Christmas is expected to end Tuesday, and the Weather Bureau says temperatures will average about six degrees below normal this week.

The five-day forecast was for colder weather Tuesday and Wednesday, then milder again about Friday or Saturday. Some light rain is expected Thursday or Friday.

Light snow or snow flurries are predicted for Tuesday and Wednesday in the mountains of Western Maryland.

Marylanders got a break from the December deepfreeze Sunday and Monday. Skies were sunny and the mercury climbed into the 40s in most areas, causing considerable melting of the remaining snow and ice.

Skies became cloudy Monday night with the approach of a new cold front. They are expected to remain partly cloudy Tuesday as the leading edge of the cold air outbreak starts spreading over the area.

The Weather Bureau said the new cold spell is not likely to be as severe as the last one.

Little precipitation has been associated with the new cold front but some light rain or drizzle was forecast for Western Maryland Monday night.

Portrait Painter Dies In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Arthur U. Newton, 67, portrait painter and wife of Arthur Newton, owner of the Newton Galleries, died Monday in Roosevelt Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Chicago, she was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Wood of Baltimore, where her father was a professor of physics at Johns Hopkins University.

She previously was married to Victor G. White, portrait painter and muralist. White died in 1954. She married Newton in 1959.

Mrs. Newton painted under the name of Margot White.

Fatal Stabbing Ends Women's Argument

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore police said Monday that a Christmas night argument between two women resulted in the fatal stabbing of one and arrest of the other.

The victim, 35-year-old Annie Douglas, was dead on arrival at Provident Hospital's wounds inflicted by a butcher knife. Police charged Dolores Peacock, 23, with the slaying.

Fire Kills Boy

BASILAN, Philippines (UPI)—A two-hour fire razed commercial and residential districts of this southern city Monday, killing a five-year-old boy and destroying property worth $1.5 million. Five persons were slightly burned. The fire left more than 6,000 persons homeless. The cause was not known.

Uninvited Guest 'ill's Party Host

ALLIQUIPPA, Pa. (AP)—Police report the host of a Christmas party was fatally shot Sunday by an uninvited guest to the party. Andrew Wright, 57, was hit with four pistol bullets in his apartment in this Pittsburgh-area community.

Police filed murder charges against Dan Pipkin, 57, Wright's next-door neighbor. Witnesses told police Pipkin went to the party uninvited, he had a drink and became noisy. Wright told him to leave.

Pipkin returned about 15 minutes later with a revolver and said: "I've got mine. Have you got yours?"

With this, he fired four bullets into Wright.

Police arrested Pipkin a short time later outside the apartment. He was still holding the gun.

Private Convict Aid Groups Hit

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the greatest crimes against society does not come from the underworld, but from many private agencies that aim to help prison inmates, a Maryland crime committee head said Monday. He did not name the agencies.

"Over the last decade, I have seen a half million dollars wasted on one agency whose basic function is to assist prisoners," said Alvin J. T. Zumbun, executive director of the Maryland Crime Investigating Committee.

Professional opinion considers the agency's program worthless, Zumbun said, adding:

"Among other things, released prisoners are encouraged to room in the same 75-cents a night 'hotel'."

The agency's director has two other paid positions, Zumbun told the 126th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which opened Monday. Zumbun said that an effective crime committee must be allowed to grow as the contributing public supports it.

"The larger the number of supporters, the less chance any one person can say that he controls the operation," Zumbun said.

Thomas David Robinson, 20, of Jessup, killed Friday night when his car collided with another auto on Maryland 193 at Wheaton.

Mrs. Richard Strawbridge, 45, of Pylesville, killed Saturday in a two-car collision in Harford County.

The fire victims were:

Sherrell Walker Jr., 4, who died Saturday when fire swept his home at Bowie.

George Coates, 40, who perished

Saturday when fire destroyed his home near Hollywood, Md.

Cold Weather Due To Return

By The Associated Press
The warmer weather Marylanders got for Christmas is expected to end Tuesday, and the Weather Bureau says temperatures will average about six degrees below normal this week.

The five-day forecast was for colder weather Tuesday and Wednesday, then milder again about Friday or Saturday. Some light rain is expected Thursday or Friday.

Light snow or snow flurries are predicted for Tuesday and Wednesday in the mountains of Western Maryland.

Marylanders got a break from the December deepfreeze Sunday and Monday. Skies were sunny and the mercury climbed into the 40s in most areas, causing considerable melting of the remaining snow and ice.

Skies became cloudy Monday night with the approach of a new cold front. They are expected to remain partly cloudy Tuesday as the leading edge of the cold air outbreak starts spreading over the area.

The Weather Bureau said the new cold spell is not likely to be as severe as the last one.

Little precipitation has been associated with the new cold front but some light rain or drizzle was forecast for Western Maryland Monday night.

Portrait Painter Dies In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Arthur U. Newton, 67, portrait painter and wife of Arthur Newton, owner of the Newton Galleries, died Monday in Roosevelt Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Chicago, she was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Wood of Baltimore, where her father was a professor of physics at Johns Hopkins University.

She previously was married to Victor G. White, portrait painter and muralist. White died in 1954. She married Newton in 1959.

Mrs. Newton painted under the name of Margot White.

Fatal Stabbing Ends Women's Argument

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore police said Monday that a Christmas night argument between two women resulted in the fatal stabbing of one and arrest of the other.

The victim, 35-year-old Annie Douglas, was dead on arrival at Provident Hospital's wounds inflicted by a butcher knife. Police charged Dolores Peacock, 23, with the slaying.

Fire Kills Boy

BASILAN, Philippines (UPI)—A two-hour fire razed commercial and residential districts of this southern city Monday, killing a five-year-old boy and destroying property worth $1.5 million. Five persons were slightly burned. The fire left more than 6,000 persons homeless. The cause was not known.

Uninvited Guest 'ill's Party Host

ALLIQUIPPA, Pa. (AP)—Police report the host of a Christmas party was fatally shot Sunday by an uninvited guest to the party.

Andrew Wright, 57, was hit with a pistol bullet in his apartment in this Pittsburgh-area community.

Police filed murder charges against Dan Pipkin, 57, Wright's next-door neighbor.

Witnesses told police Pipkin went to the party uninvited. He had a drink and became noisy. Wright told him to leave.

Pipkin returned about 15 minutes later with a revolver and said:

"I've got mine. Have you got yours?"

With this, he fired four bullets into Wright.

Police arrested Pipkin a short time later outside the apartment. He was still holding the gun.

Private Convict Aid Groups Hit

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the greatest crimes against society does not come from the underworld, but from many private agencies that aim to help prisoners, a Maryland crime committee head said Monday.

"Over the last decade, I have seen a half million dollars wasted on one agency whose basic function is to assist prisoners," said Alvin J. T. Zumbun, executive director of the Maryland Crime Investigating Committee.

Professional opinion considers the agency's program worthless, Zumbun said, adding: "Among other things, released prisoners are encouraged to room in the same 75-cents a night hotel."

The agency's director has two other paid positions, Zumbun told the 126th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which opened Monday. Zumbun said that an effective crime committee must be allowed to grow as the contributing public supports it.

"The larger the number of supporters, the less chance any one person can say that he controls the operation," Zumbun said.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Are you some kind of a nut or something? What do you mean by telling Broken-Hearted Sophie that her red-bearded boy friend should shave or be barred from her home? Are you suggesting that unless a person conforms he should be cast out of society?

How about A. Lincoln, George B. Shaw, Sigmund Freud, Hank Longfellow, Santa Claus, and all those other cool cats? If this nation is going to swing again and face up to its responsibilities we've got to quit bugging the off-beaters. You're out to lunch.

—B. G.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me what to do about a good friend who blew her top over something unimportant.

The other evening my husband and I and our two boys (7 and 10) were invited to Jennie's house for supper.

Jennie has little girls, so she just doesn't understand that boys are different. My Tommy spilled a glass of milk on her kitchen floor and naturally I was embarrassed, but it wasn't the end of the world.

I picked up what I thought was a rag and started to clean up the mess. She shrieked, "That's my dish-cloth. Don't you dare use it on the floor." I said, "It looks like a rag to me." She became livid and replied, "Maybe my dish-cloths look like rags, but my children know how to behave when they're out."

I shook all evening—didn't enjoy the supper one bit, and neither did my husband. I don't want to go there for supper ever again. My husband says to forget it. What is your advice?

—STILL SHAKING

DEAR STILL: Go without your children—if you're invited.

It's obvious that Jennie is not emotionally tooled up for little boys.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 24 and madly in love with a girl 18. She has a hot temper and I always seem to be getting in bad with her about something that is not my fault.

Last night I was at her home and I ran out of cigarettes. She went upstairs to get a pack from her purse. Unfortunately she slipped on the stairs and turned her ankle very bad. She got mad at me and said if I hadn't run out of cigarettes the accident would not have happened. Then she punched me in the arm. Today I have a black and blue mark as big as an orange.

I phoned her this morning but she wouldn't talk to me. What shall I do now?

—BRUISED BUT IN LOVE

DEAR BRUISED: Let her alone. If you're lucky you may lose her for good. This girl sounds like a firecracker with a short fuse. If you marry her you'll need friends at the blood bank.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

My heart is hard toward those responsible for the Frannies and Fios, Gussies and Goldies, Tessies and Tillies, Bessies and Bobbies, Lollies, Lotties and Lillies, Mamies, Mollies and Maggies. All the Susies, Patsies, Pegs, Dots and Annies have my sympathy, well-salted with respect for their forbearance. —B. G.

DEAR B. G.: Far be it from me to bum-rap the off-beaters but there is a difference between Off-Beat and Kooksville.

Every one of the bearded gents mentioned made some contribution to society. They didn't sport chin bushes merely to attract attention. They were men of achievement who wore beards because it was the style of the day. The kid I told to take a shave was a 17-year-old odd-ball who was trying to shock people into noticing him. The Smith Brothers at least invented cough drops. This beatnik did nothing but sit around the house and antagonize Sophie's father. The advice stands.

BALANCED INVESTMENTS

The lure of stock market investments is powerful and certainly has its place for a portion of your money in planning your financial security, but it is changeable and sensitive to many influences. In the field of mortgage loans, we believe it is improper always to be tinkering with interest and dividend rates because our mortgages are drawn to run about 12 years and are repayable in a fixed number of dollars with 6% interest.

We think it well to invest a substantial portion of your savings in this Association which places all its funds in first mortgages on homes in this community. We pay the highest dividend, 4%, that can safely be paid in Maryland on this type of security, and increase reserves.

In this way, you will be helping yourself by receiving the greatest dividend possible, consistent with safety, and at the same time helping your neighbors acquire homes.

Try New Ideas To Enhance Your Appearance

Wishing you were taller, shorter, more statuesque or petite will pass your time away... but get you nowhere. Some brand new ideas are what you need... and the place to start is by discarding some old ones!

If you are in a rut where your appearance is concerned, discard the colors or lines or hair styles you adopted years ago because they were becoming and fashionable then. Look into your mirror and answer honestly, "What of today?"

Today is the day you must look your best—not yesterday or tomorrow. You may discover that your type has changed without your having realized it! And the moment you switch to your correct and new type, you'll feel as though the designers of your new clothes had made them just for you, they'll be so right!

For instance, you may always have bought your clothes in the misses department, while now you can be better suited, fitted and dressed in the women's or half-size salons.

If so, make the switch quickly with joy in your heart because you live in the only country in the world where an assembly line will deliver right to your front door a precision size, expertly designed for your type.

No longer will your clothes look as though they're about to swallow you up or pop their bottoms. They will behave just as they should. The shoulder will be padded gently to extend in a line with the widest part of the arm. Suddenly, your long waistline will have become an asset, and at last, properly slimmer with a narrow or half belt of self-material. Your frustrations with high collars, high-round necks or spotty trimmings will become only a memory! You'll be provided with exactly what is right for you... luxedo collars, medium V's and vertical decor. There will be no trouble about color either! You'll have plenty of it and in deep, rich, elegant shades. And you can even have the best of assistance in picking out your new colors—the ones that will flatter and announce the new you—with my scientific colorscope. This beauty aid in my handy pamphlet, "Your Color Type," is yours for only a dime and a stamped, return envelope sent to me, J.R.P., c/o this paper.

Now, assemble your new finds with the right accessories... all aristocratic and scaled to size: hats of medium height and brim, delicate shoes with untottery two-and-a-half-inch heels.

You'll be a "fine figger of a woman" forcing a great many other figures to envious admiration!

Navy Man Killed

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—One Navy shore patrolman was killed and two other sailors slightly injured Monday when a patrol wagon went out of control in the exclusive Ocean Drive section.

The Navy identified the deadman as Machinist Mate Raymond Larsen, a bridegroom of one month whose wife made her home in Newport. Larsen's family resides in La Crosse, Wis.

Escaping serious injury in the accident were the driver, Boiler room or half belt of self-material. Apprentice Fireman Kenneth Beck, both stationed aboard the Destroyer Escort U.S.S. Hartley.

The bidding:
East South West North
3 4 Pass Pass 6 6
Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♣

The contract of six hearts was reached at all tables in today's hand taken from a recent tournament. When one examines the combined holdings of North and South it becomes apparent that it is not a very good slam to be in. But this is very difficult to foresee in the bidding. There is considerable duplication. North's queen of diamonds is wasted and he also has the wrong doubleton. If he had three spades and two clubs, there would have been no problem.

The prospect was dismal when the king of clubs was opened. Declarer could see 11 tricks and apparently the only hope was squeeze for the 12th. That could come off if the hand with the clubs also held four diamonds so that at the end he could not hold both. But to effect a squeeze it would be necessary first to concede the losing trick. So declarer ducked and when the club continuation was ruffed by East, school was out.

Only one player found the winning play. When the eight of clubs appeared from East on the first trick it looked dangerously like a singleton and this declarer realized he could not afford to concede that trick. The play for a squeeze had to be abandoned, since no squeeze can be affected until the loser is conceded. If East's club were alone and he also had four diamonds, South saw a neat way to make the hand. He won the first trick, drew the trumps, played the ace and another spade, clearing that suit from both hands. Then came the three high diamonds. Both opponents followed and on the third lead of this suit South discarded one of his clubs. The three of diamonds then was played and East covered with the jack. Declarer permitted him to hold this trick, discarding another club, and East was helpless. He was obliged to lead a spade. This permitted South to discard his last remaining club and ruff the trick in dummy.

The ancient Greeks regarded cock fighting so highly that funerals were held for the popular feathered combatants and monuments erected to them.

Nab Dope Runners

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two Chinese cooks on a Danish ship were held Monday on charges trying to slip $1 million worth of pure heroin into the United States on Christmas Day for delivery to an international narcotic ring.

Treasury agents on a routine check nabbed Kwong Leung, 49, and Ng Ming Yiu, 32, both of Hong Kong, after they debarked from the ship Lexa Maersk in Brooklyn.

Pure heroin was found taped to their legs and backs in a "cleverly concealed" manner, the agents said.

Gov. Underwood Asks Question

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, who spent his last Christmas as West Virginia chief executive at the governor's mansion, told West Virginians Friday they should ask themselves, "Is there today room in the inn?"

Underwood said in his final Christmas message that 1960 years ago "there was no room in the inn" and that West Virginians now should, throughout their lives, "make room."

Underwood, who goes out of office Jan. 16, said Christ's "promise was extended to those who believe, to give them life everlasting. His example was held out to the world to give us peace."

The British coin, the penny, was first mentioned in the laws of the Saxons about the close of the Seventh century.

BALANCED INVESTMENTS

The lure of stock market investments is powerful and certainly has its place for a portion of your money in planning your financial security, but it is changeable and sensitive to many influences. In the field of mortgage loans, we believe it is improper always to be tinkering with interest and dividend rates because our mortgages are drawn to run about 12 years and are repayable in a fixed number of dollars with 6% interest.

We think it well to invest a substantial portion of your savings in this Association which places all its funds in first mortgages on homes in this community. We pay the highest dividend, 4%, that can safely be paid in Maryland on this type of security, and increase reserves.

In this way, you will be helping yourself by receiving the greatest dividend possible, consistent with safety, and at the same time helping your neighbors acquire homes.

Wishing for a change in your type, size or age?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Try New Ideas To Enhance Your Appearance

Wishing you were taller, shorter, more statuesque or petite will pass your time away . . . but get you nowhere. Some brand new ideas are what you need . . . and the place to start is by discarding some old ones!

If you are in a rut where your appearance is concerned, discard the colors or lines or hair styles you adopted years ago because they were becoming and fashionable then. Look into your mirror and answer honestly, "What of today?"

Today is the day you must look your best—not yesterday or tomorrow. You may discover that your type has changed without your having realized it! And the moment you switch to your correct and new type, you'll feel as though the designers of your new clothes had made them just for you, they'll be so right!

For instance, you may always have bought your clothes in the misses department, while now you can be better suited, fitted and dressed in the women's or half-size salons.

If so, make the switch quickly . . . with joy in your heart because you live in the only country in the world where an assembly line will deliver right to your front door a precision size, expertly designed for your type.

No longer will your clothes look as though they're about to swallow you up or pop their bottoms. They will behave just as they should. The big gift that comes in "little packages"

A U.S. Savings Bond measures $7\frac{3}{4} \times 3\frac{1}{4}$ inches. But Savings Bonds are a lot bigger than a ruler shows. They represent a lot of things most of us think about during the holiday season: our Peace Power, a stronger America, and personal financial security.

U.S. Savings Bonds grow with the years. They not only earn interest for college and business careers, but they help your youngsters learn good savings habits.

Why not give U.S. Savings Bonds this Christmas? It's one of the nicest ways there is to decorate a tree.

Some advantages of U.S. Savings Bonds as a gift

You now get $3\frac{1}{4}\%$ interest, to maturity. This new rate, which went into effect June 1, 1959, makes your Bond money grow faster. Series E Bonds now mature 14 months earlier than before—in just 7 years, 9 months. Bonds bought before June 1, 1959, earn more, too—an extra $\frac{1}{2}\%$ from that date to maturity.

You can get your money, with interest, any time you want it. Bonds are a ready reserve that you can cash any time at any bank. But it pays to keep them.

Your money is guaranteed by the U. S. Government. Bonds are an absolutely riskless investment. The Government promises you that the cash value of your Bond will not drop—it can only grow.

Your money can't be lost or stolen. The Treasury will replace your Bonds, free, if anything happens to them.

You save more than money. You help save the peace. Every Bond you buy helps keep our Nation and our Nation's economy strong.

Most Motorists Lack Caution

During the hazardous driving months now underway, both motorists and pedestrians have ample opportunity to note the prevalence of one of the most dangerous habits of drivers—lack of caution.

A cautious driver does more than merely exercise care when road conditions are not ideal. According to a study of drivers made by Columbia University, caution is the foremost attribute of professional drivers who are rated safe.

Researchers at the university who delved into traits of 5,000 professional drivers who had been awarded safe driver certificates by the National Safety Council found personality and mental attitudes important in development of good driving habits.

Thrill, satisfaction with his job, compatibility at home, and an easygoing, non-aggressive personality are traits of the successful driver. He tries to plan his schedule so he need not hurry, lets cars from side streets into his lane of traffic, yields the right of way without griping about other drivers, and in general remains in good humor while on the road.

Admittedly, in a world of selfish people it is difficult for the most even-tempered motorist to retain his composure at all times. But tests for drivers' licenses in the future may include questionnaires similar to the one used by Columbia University to determine whether an applicant possesses the necessary temperament.

Instant reflexes, a second nature which tends to make the right decisions automatically, good health and better than average knowledge of the mechanics of an automobile lead to better than average driving, but behind them all is the important mental attitude. Measuring a driver is not much different from gauging efficiency in any other occupation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Is Nepotism?

When a man builds a career all by himself, is it nepotism if that career receives adequate recognition? Politics, of course, takes advantage of any situation, and the Republicans whisper nepotism because President John Kennedy appointed his brother, Robert, Attorney General of the United States. Robert, however, built his own career without particular aid from brother John. His career is that of a tough, ruthless prosecutor. And that is precisely what is needed in the Attorney General's office which has not been too effective in recent years, even failing on its face in the Apalachin case which the court held was inadequately prepared.

When the opponents to Robert Kennedy's appointment get through with nepotism, they will say that he is too young. How young was Alexander Hamilton when he wrote the Federalist Papers? 32. How old was William Pitt, the Younger, when he was made prime minister of England and became America's greatest friend? 24. How old was Mozart when he died after contributing a wealth of music to the world? 35. John Marshall, perhaps the greatest justice who sat on the Supreme Court of the United States and whose decisions are as fundamental as the Constitution, was only 46 years of age when he reached that highest post, after a long career in government including the office of Secretary of State.

This Kennedy Administration appeals to the imagination because of its youth and its unfamiliarity. Most of the men in it are hardly known to the American people and at least two were not known to the new President. John Kennedy is risking his career on the judgment and ability of these younger men to pull this country out of the doldrums of complacency, appeasement and defeat. What will these younger men do to arouse our spirit?

When Robert Kennedy takes over the Department of Justice, he will find a large number of vacancies to be filled. It is surprising that the Republicans failed to appoint the necessary judges and that many of the appointments to the Federal bench in recent years have won the respect neither of lawyers nor laymen. It used to be that the Federal courts were regarded as the best example of American public life. We may one day become sufficiently mature to develop judicial office as a career: at any rate, it is to be hoped that the requirement of the courts for additional and competent judges will not be ignored by this Attorney General. Delay in the judicial process can, of itself, be injustice.

The anti-trust division of the Attorney General's office requires more than a team of lawyers. It requires economists and sociologists on the top level of decision. During two wars, the Korean police action and a terrifying Cold War we have forced our industry to become big because we require stand-by plants for great emergencies. It is impossible to utilize our plant 100 per cent without destroying the economies of some of our allies. At the same time, the Europeans have organized cartels with which our individualistic firms cannot compete. The Soviet countries utilize a totally state-owned industry which ignores cost in determining price, as with them, price is a political not an economic factor.

All this American industry has to consider and understand. The free market, the ideal of American capitalism, has been foreclosed by international politics in a period of unorthodox war.

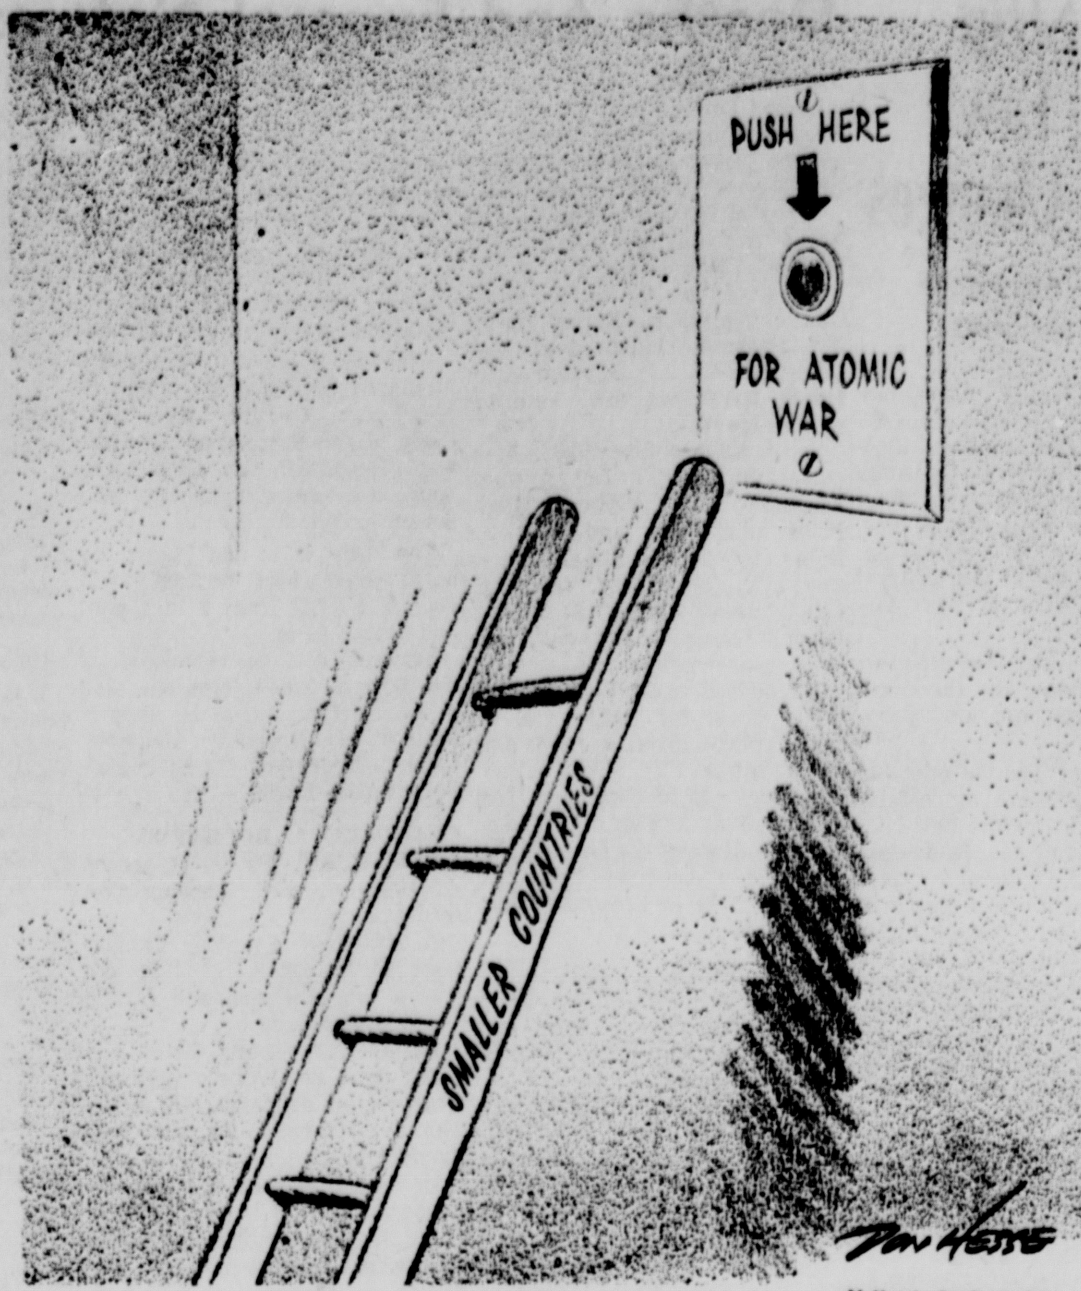

The anti-trust division of the Department of Justice has ignored these factors in its analysis of American industry. Today a $30,000,000 to a $100,000,000 corporation is regarded as a medium-size business. The cost of creating means of production, that is jobs, can no longer be measured in thousands of dollars for the new products needed for the defense of this nation require millions. There must be combinations — call them prime and sub-contractors, if you will — because not even the largest units of production can do an entire job.

So, there are consent decrees to end litigation or to avert or evade litigation but economic necessities and the pressures of defense involve so many large enterprises that the entire anti-trust concept will have to be retranslated into 1960 terminology if we are to make any sense at all.

This is a tall job, for any man, young or old. But the youngsters will have to live with it: they may as well try to solve it.

Kennedy Administration Plays Politics

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It has often been said around Washington that the Eisenhower Administration has not played politics enough. Before long, however, comments may be heard that the Kennedy Administration is doing just the opposite — playing politics too much.

Certainly the high hopes of many observers that the selfish game of politics would be submerged, if not suppressed, in this critical period of world history, were somewhat dampened by the announcement issued by President-elect Kennedy at Palm Beach, saying he had offered "a high position in the Defense Department" to former Governor James P. Coleman of Mississippi.

It so happens that Mr. Coleman declined, but evidently it was regarded as good politics to publicize the offer. In fact, its significance was emphasized by Mr. Coleman himself when he frankly said afterward that he was "more grateful for the offer as recognition to the state of Mississippi" than to himself.

Former Governor Coleman did yeoman service for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in the last campaign. But the people of Mississippi gave more votes to the unpledged electors—who cast their ballots in the Electoral College for Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia—than they did to regular Democratic nominees. But somehow it is considered important by the Kennedy managers to show the faithful politicians in Mississippi that federal jobs will be forthcoming to them just the same.

What is surprising is the bold way in which this piece of politics was played. One would think things like this would be relegated to the Democratic National Chairman or a state chairman to handle. But the desire to give the episode wide publicity undoubtedly prompted the President-elect to take a hand, as he himself issued the following statement:

"Secretary of Defense-designate Robert S. McNamara met the day before yesterday in Jackson, Mississippi, with Mississippi's former Governor, James P. Coleman. Mr. McNamara offered Mr. Coleman a high position in the Defense Department. It was felt that Mr. Coleman's proven executive ability would have been a great asset to the Defense Department. Governor Coleman reluctantly turned down the offer, feeling it was impossible for him to leave Mississippi at this time."

The foregoing will lead lots of people to suspect that various tenders of public office have recently been made by Mr. Kennedy more as political gestures than as bona fide offers.

There is, for instance, the case of Representative William L. Dawson of Illinois, Democrat, a Negro, who is chairman of the House Committee on Governmental operations. Mr. Kennedy during the campaign was quick to throw a political barb at Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican candidate for the vice presidency, because the latter said in a public speech that Mr. Nixon, if elected, would name a Negro to the cabinet. The Democratic presidential candidate piously proclaimed that he would not stoop to such poli-

TRIUMPH OF THE EGG-HEADS — The Democratic election victory appears to have been a triumph of the egg-heads after eight years of sneers and abuse.

In his two runs for the presidency, Adlai Stevenson suffered considerably at the hands of political critics who belittled his egg-head tendencies. During this time, there were those who believed that the ability to think was a positive liability politically.

However, the situation now has changed. President-elect John F. Kennedy not only has named Stevenson to a high post in his administration, he has repeatedly reached into the halls of ivory for top administrators in both foreign and economic policy posts.

In defense of the egg-head, the late Donald R. Richberg, an egg-head himself, once remarked: If WASHINGTON WINTER — Washington, D. C., was struck by its first snowstorm and cold snap of the winter, and, as Harry Truman would say, it was a "dinger." Traffic was snarled to a standstill, government offices and private businesses closed up.

It is recalled that the Japanese decided their timing of the attack on Pearl Harbor to coincide with the least number of Americans on military duty—a Sunday morning.

With grim humor, Washingtonians fear snow tie-ups because any knowledgeable aggressor would know that the time to hit the capital would be during a storm—the government seems to be unable to function then.

Will The New Year Bring A Cold Vaccine?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An oral vaccine similar to that used against polio may be in the cards for the prevention of colds and other respiratory infections in the near future. Dozens of viruses known to produce the sniffles will be tamed and incorporated into a liquid or tablet to be taken periodically.

This type preventive would be a boon to mankind as respiratory infections are the most common cause of disability in children at school and adults at work. Prophylaxis would end the respiratory infections that reduce our performances several times each year.

Meanwhile we might as well return to earth and dispense with wishful thinking. We have a flu vaccine that protects us from a small percentage of respiratory infections. For the others, we must rely upon the standard cold remedies, including bed rest, which heads the list.

The antibiotics are useful when bacteria, such as streptococci and staphylococci, are responsible for sore throat, nasal congestion, or bronchitis. They have no effect on the virus responsible for most respiratory diseases.

Aspirin continues to be the perennial favorite for most cold victims. It reduces fever, irritability, pain, and aching. The product rates high on comfort but low on germ killing. The old-timer, Dover's powder, is in somewhat the same category. This opiate does an all round job and still is used by many physicians to promote comfort.

More modern remedies include the antihistaminic compounds which often abort a cold when taken early. Other drugs relieve congestion and liquefy the discharge making it easier to bring up. Medicines are available to check cough but are unnecessary unless hacking is dry, interferes with sleep, or hurts the chest. There is no reason to stop a natural process designed to eliminate purulent material from the lungs. Most of our pharmaceutical companies combine several of these chemicals into a tablet or sirup so that we now have cold remedies that ease symptoms as they develop.

good will toward men."

It is a tragic paradox that an atomic reactor with the potentiality of producing an A-bomb should be built in the country which gave the world the great goal of peace and the inspiring teachings of the Hebrew prophets. Yet it is understandable.

Not A Textile Mill

The immediate background dates back to a few weeks ago when CIA officials in Tel Aviv asked Israeli officials about the new installation in the Negev and were told it was a textile mill. Whereupon, CIA officials photographed it with long-range lenses which revealed that it was a nuclear reactor.

The American Embassy in Tel Aviv then protested this concealment, which had led the CIA to conclude that Israel was building an A-bomb. Israeli authorities replied that they didn't confide in Central Intelligence because they did not trust its members.

Recalling the manner in which certain CIA officials sided with Nasser and the Arabs, this was understandable.

At this point, Secretary of State Herter called in Israeli Ambassador Avraham Harman and was quite blunt in asking him for an official explanation. This didn't sit too well in various quarters.

In the first place, the Herter family's fortune comes from the Pratts, one of the early Standard Oil officials with heavy investments in Arabian oil. Second, the State Department has a long history of favoring the Arab states. And the manner in which the Israeli Army was forced out of Suez after pledges of transit through the Suez Canal, which were never kept, has long rankled the Israelis.

Also ranking the Israelis is the fact that the United States has refused to send a single gun or piece of ammunition into Israel, at the same time that the Arab states received $453,000,000 in arms, submarines, MIG fighters, and tanks from the USSR in 1959 alone.

Foolish Secrecy

It was absurd for the Eisenhower Administration to believe that the secret of the atom could be long kept, especially from Israeli scientists. After all, it was Jewish refugees from Hitler who first gave the United States that secret.

And when Naval Intelligence during World War II protested to President Roosevelt that Dr. Albert Einstein should not be given details of the atomic bomb because he was a Jew and perhaps a Communist Jew, FDR replied:

"Not telling Einstein about the atomic bomb is like not telling God about the creation of the earth."

It was Einstein, of course, who had first written Roosevelt about the possibility of splitting the atom.

Regardless of the past, however, the fact is that Colonel Nasser has bluntly told the American Embassy in Cairo that he will get atomic weapons from Russia unless Israel is stopped from manufacturing an A-bomb. Nasser is terrified at what an A-bomb in the hands of Israel could do to the Arab states — despite the huge arsenal he has received from Russia.

All of which means that an even more intensive arms race may explode in the area where Christ was born nearly 2,000 years ago this week. It also means that the biggest job facing President Kennedy after Jan. 20 will be to try to head off the atomic arms race.

It's already known that Red China is on the verge of exploding an atomic bomb. Sweden, and even tiny Switzerland are rushing ahead with atomic reactors.

Russia has come a long way toward accepting the general principle of inspection to prevent atomic testing. Perhaps the emergency of little Israel as an atomic power may tip the diplomatic scale and lead to the agreement which the world so badly needs but at which stubborn diplomats have so long balked.

Most Motorists Lack Caution

During the hazardous driving months now underway, both motorists and pedestrians have ample opportunity to note the prevalence of one of the most dangerous habits of drivers—lack of caution. A cautious driver does more than merely exercise care when road conditions are not ideal. According to a study of drivers made by Columbia University, caution is the foremost attribute of professional drivers who are rated safe.

Researchers at the university who delved into traits of 5,000 professional drivers who had been awarded safe driver certificates by the National Safety Council found personality and mental attitudes important in development of good driving habits.

Thrift, satisfaction with his job, compatibility at home, and an easygoing, non-aggressive personality are traits of the successful driver. He tries to plan his schedule so he need not hurry, lets cars from side streets into his lane of traffic, yields the right of way without griping about other drivers, and in general remains in good humor while on the road.

Admittedly, in a world of selfish people it is difficult for the most even-tempered motorist to retain his composure at all times. But tests for drivers' licenses in the future may include questionnaires similar to the one used by Columbia University to determine whether an applicant possesses the necessary temperament.

Instant reflexes, a second nature which tends to make the right decisions automatically, good health and better than average knowledge of the mechanics of an automobile lead to better than average driving, but behind them all is the important mental attitude. Measuring a driver is not much different from gauging efficiency in any other occupation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Is Nepotism?

When a man builds a career all by himself, is it nepotism if that career receives adequate recognition? Politics, of course, takes advantage of any situation, and the Republicans whisper nepotism because President John Kennedy appointed his brother, Robert, Attorney General of the United States. Robert, however, built his own career without particular aid from brother John. His career is that of a tough, ruthless prosecutor. And that is precisely what is needed in the Attorney General's office which has not been too effective in recent years, even falling on its face in the Apalachin case which the court held was inadequately prepared.

When the opponents to Robert Kennedy's appointment get through with nepotism, they will say that he is too young. How young was Alexander Hamilton when he wrote the Federalist Papers? 32. How old was William Pitt, the Younger, when he was made prime minister of England and became America's greatest friend? 24. How old was Mozart when he died after contributing a wealth of music to the world? 35. John Marshall, perhaps the greatest justice who sat on the Supreme Court of the United States and whose decisions are as fundamental as the Constitution, was only 46 years of age when he reached that highest post, after a long career in government including the office of Secretary of State.

This Kennedy Administration appeals to the imagination because of its youth and its unfamiliarity. Most of the men in it are hardly known to the American people and at least two were not known to the new President. John Kennedy is risking his career on the judgment and ability of these younger men to pull this country out of the doldrums of complacency, appeasement and defeat. What will these younger men do to arouse our spirit?

When Robert Kennedy takes over the Department of Justice, he will find a large number of vacancies to be filled. It is surprising that the Republicans failed to appoint the necessary judges and that many of the appointments to the Federal bench in recent years have won the respect neither of lawyers nor laymen. It used to be that the Federal courts were regarded as the best example of American public life. We may one day become sufficiently mature to develop judicial office as a career; at any rate, it is to be hoped that the requirement of the courts for additional and competent judges will not be ignored by this Attorney General. Delay in the judicial process can, of itself, be injurious.

The anti-trust division of the Attorney General's office requires more than a team of lawyers. It requires economists and sociologists on the top level of decision. During two wars, the Korean police action and a terrifying Cold War we have forced our industry to become big because we require stand-by plants for great emergencies. It is impossible to utilize our plant 100 per cent without destroying the economies of some of our allies. At the same time, the Europeans have organized cartels with which our individualistic firms cannot compete. The Soviet countries utilize a totally state-owned industry which ignores cost in determining price, as with them, price is a political not an economic factor.

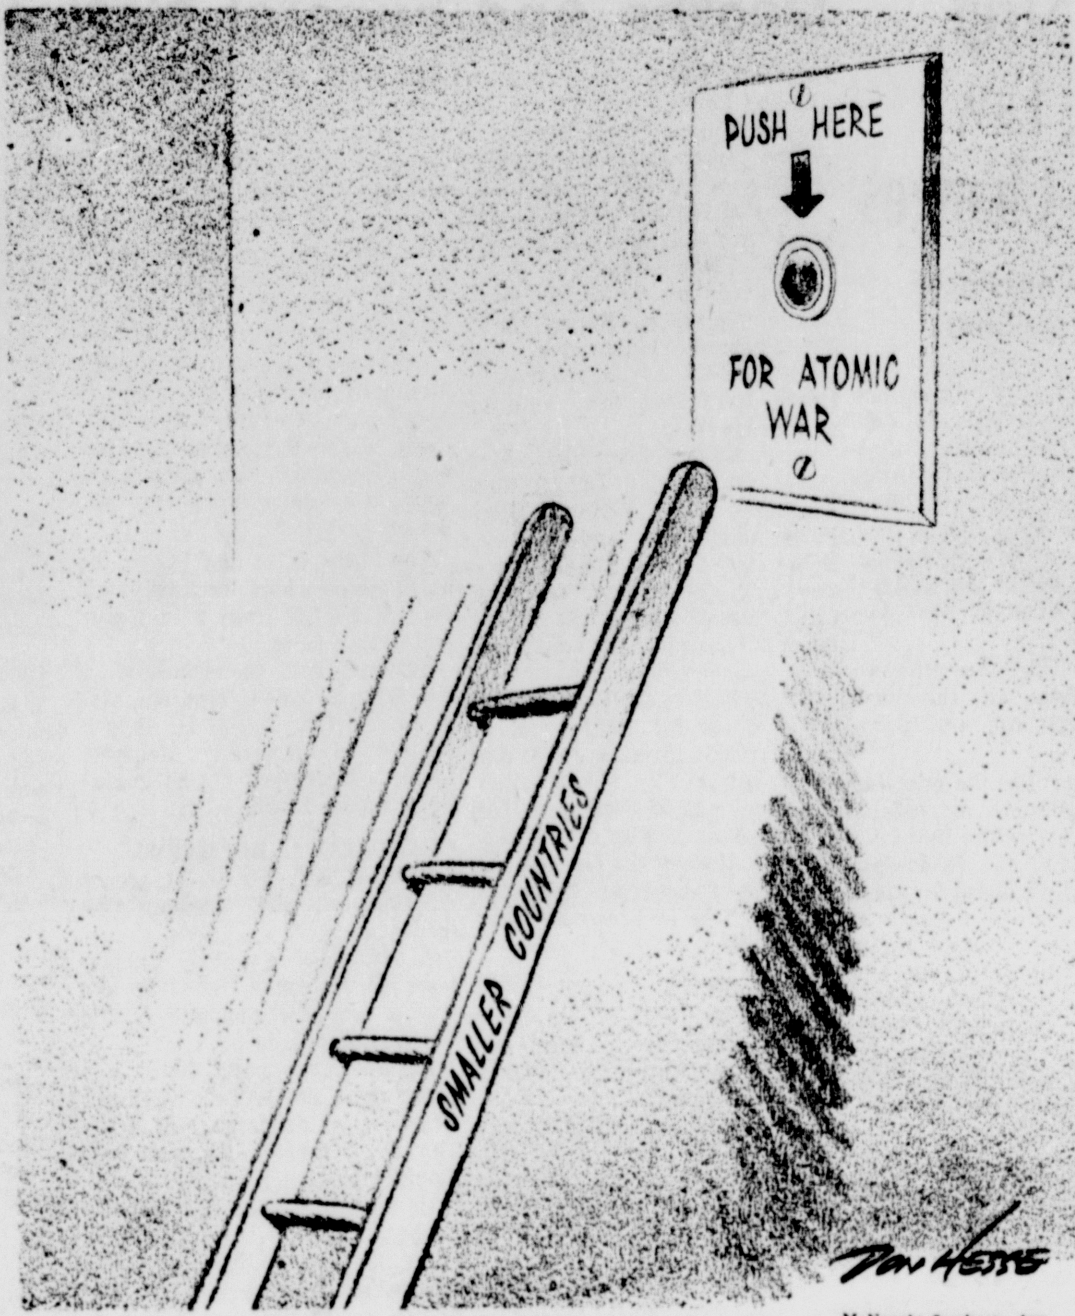

All this American industry has to consider and understand. The free market, the ideal of American capitalism, has been foreclosed by international politics in a period of unorthodox war.

The anti-trust division of the Department of Justice has ignored these factors in its analysis of American industry. Today a $30,000,000 to a $100,000,000 corporation is regarded as a medium-size business. Nuclear Reactor Located In Desert Where Father Abraham Wandered

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If you travel south from Beersheba on the Negev Desert you pass through that part of Israel where Abraham, father of the tribes of Israel, cast out his Egyptian bonds-woman, Hagar, and her son Ish-mial at the bidding of the Lord, and where the Lord, in turn, brought water to Hagar.

That began the division of those two great semitic races, the Arabs and the Jews, a division which has reached bitter climaxes of late.

The town of Beersheba has changed considerably since the days of Abraham. It still has its camel market, where Bedouin tribesmen haggle over young camels, then load them, protesting and biting, into trucks. But on the road south from Beer-sheba, the modern camel has to be wary or he gets run down by the modern means of Israeli locomotion—the automobile.

Thirty miles south of Beer-sheba, however, is the most modern near eastern development of all—a nuclear reactor, which last week caused frantic secret conferences in the capitals of the world.

The news, since denied, that Israel was building an atomic bomb, shook the Western capitals just as the Western world prepared to celebrate the birthday of Him whose birth was heralded not far from Beersheba with the joyous promise "Peace on earth, good will toward men." It is a tragic paradox that an atomic reactor with the potentiality of producing an A-bomb should be built in the country which gave the world the great goal of peace and the inspiring teachings of the Hebrew prophets. Yet it is understandable.

Foolish Secrecy It was absurd for the Eisenhower Administration to believe that the secret of the atom could be long kept, especially from Israeli scientists. After all, it was Jewish refugees from Hitler who first gave the United States that secret.

And when Naval Intelligence during World War II protested to President Roosevelt that Dr. Albert Einstein should not be given details of the atomic bomb because he was a Jew and perhaps a Communist Jew, FDR replied:

"Not telling Einstein about the atomic bomb is like not telling God about the creation of the earth."

It was Einstein, of course, who had first written Roosevelt about the possibility of splitting the atom.

Regardless of the past, however, the fact is that Colonel Nasser has bluntly told the American Embassy in Cairo that he will get atomic weapons from Russia unless Israel is stopped from manufacturing an A-bomb. Nasser is terrified at what an A-bomb in the hands of Israel could do to the Arab states — despite the huge arsenal he has received from Russia.

All of which means that an even more intensive arms race may explode in the area where Christ was born nearly 2,000 years ago this week. It also means that the biggest job facing President Kennedy after Jan. 20 will be to try to head off the atomic arms race.

It's already known that Red China is on the verge of exploding an atomic bomb. Sweden, and even tiny Switzerland are rushing ahead with atomic reactors.

Russia has come a long way toward accepting the general principle of inspection to prevent atomic testing. Perhaps the emergency of little Israel as an atomic power may tip the diplomatic scale and lead to the agreement which the world so badly needs but at which stubborn diplomats have so long balked.

Art Lewis' Departure Rated Top Sports News

Editor's Note: Following is the last of five dispatches reviewing West Virginia's top news stories of 1960, the year in government and politics, business and industry, the lighter side of the news and sports.

By JERRY GOULD
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The departure from West Virginia University of the man who led the Mountaineers to their greatest heights in football was the year's top sports story in the Mountain State.

Arthur Ephraim (Pappy) Lewis pulled up stakes last April 18 at WVU after being placed in what he termed an "unbearable" situation by university officials.

It was only three months earlier that President Elvis J. Stahr Jr. went against the wishes of the university's Athletic Council and retained Pappy for another year.

But, at the same time, Stahr said in a statewide radio network broadcast that Art was being kept only "by the skin of his teeth."

The upheaval at West Virginia, which included the departure of basketball coach Fred Schaus and a winless football season, dominated the state sports scene.

Other top news markers included: — Jerry West named for a second consecutive year to the UPI All-America team and co-captain of the U. S. Olympic team.

— Weirton winning the Class AAA football title with halfback Bob Kelley leading the way.

— Another "big school" basketball championship for Parkersburg.

— Burnsville High School ace Danny Heater scoring 135 points to break the national basketball point record for a single game.

— Unlikely sight of Sam Snead leaving State Open tournament at Huntington before picking up $1,200 in prize money.

— Marshall winding up with 10-13 basketball and 2-7-1 football records under Jule Rivlin and Charlie Snyder.

— Romney winning Class AA basketball crown behind magnificent Bill Maphis.

— And Charleston's doubtful status in American Association.

There were other major sports stories of course. Ed Tutwiler Jr., Charleston, won his ninth State Amateur title to tie a record held by Jules Pollock of Wheeling; Sally Carroll of Wheeling won her second consecutive state women's golf title.

Slender Allen Galloway of Alderson led scholastic football scoring with 195 points; Wesleyan had another fine basketball team as it won the West Virginia Conference regular season title; Charleston High School took honors in the state track meet.

Fairmont State annexed both the regular-season and WVC bowl crowns; Winfield won the Class A football championship in its third playoff game; Mt. Hope and Williamson tied for the Class AA title; East Bank won the high school baseball tournament and many others.

The downfall of Lewis came after the 1959 and 59 seasons in which his teams won seven, lost 12 and tied two. However, his 10-year record was 38 wins, 38 losses and two ties.

Lewis, who went on to become an assistant with the Pittsburgh Steelers was succeeded by Gene Corum, one of his assistants. It fell Corum's lot to start from scratch and the Mountaineers had their first winless season since football was inaugurated at WVU in 1891. They tied two and lost eight.

Fred Schaus, who had a tempting offer in 1959 to become head coach at the University of Washington, finally accepted the proposition of the Los Angeles Lakers, Mountaineer basketball teams enjoyed their greatest success under Schaus. They won 146 games

W. Va. Strip Mining Law Makes Changes

Landowner Faces Responsibilities

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — Many changes of importance to both surface mine operators and landowners or owners of surface mining rights are included in West Virginia's new strip mining law, according to A. H. VanLandingham, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at West Virginia University.

The new law became effective upon its passage by the West Virginia Legislature on March 13, 1959.

Under the old law, the operator was held responsible for obtaining a permit. Under the new law, the operator and the landowner are both held responsible when any land or additional acreage is stripped and not covered by a permit. Dr. VanLandingham cited. To obtain a permit, the operator must give a performance bond to insure the reclamation of stripped areas. Both the landowner and the operator stand to profit from an operation.

Another very important change in the law has to do with the renewal of permits. Under the old law, a permit, once issued, was active until the stripping was completed, the reclamation work done, and the bond released. This system permitted areas to remain unclaimed for long periods after it might appear that the work had been completed. Under the new law, a permit is issued for a period of one year from the date of issuance, but can be extended upon written request and by the payment of $50 for each succeeding year.

After the mining operation is completed or abandoned, the operator is required to (1) cover the face of the coal and as far as practicable bury all roof coal and pyrite shale; (2) seal off with an earth fill any break-through to underground workings in the coal; (3) drain all the surface involved in the mining operation and provide such outlets as may be necessary to conduct storm and seepage waters from such surface to a permanent stream or stream bed with as little erosion as possible; (4) remove all metal, lumber, and other refuse resulting from the operation; (5) re-grade in an approved manner, and (6) plant trees, shrubs, grasses, or vines upon the land affected in such a manner so as to establish a satisfactory cover on the land.

Bloodmobile Will Visit Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Rev. Laurence Smith, chairman of the Hardy County Chapter, American Red Cross, announces that the bloodmobile will be at the Moore Home January 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The mobile unit was scheduled to be in Moorefield December 13 but was forced by bad roads to cancel that appointment. With the new year, it is hoped that a large number will be present to donate blood.

Capon Valley Bank Declares Dividend

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The directors of the Capon Valley Bank have declared a dividend of four per cent or $4 payable to shareholders on December 31 and of record December 15.

Courtney Tusing, cashier of the institution, reported the dividend was the 67th declared. A dividend of six per cent or $6 was declared in June of this year, making total dividend payments of $10 for the year.

Merrells Consigns Eight For Angus Show

BURLINGTON, W. Va. — W. G. Merrells' Longview Angus herd from here is West Virginia's only consignor for the 23rd annual Southern Regional Angus Show and Sale to be held January 2 and 3 at the State Coliseum in Montgomery, Ala.

There will be 36 consignors representing eight states. They have consigned 143 bulls and 23 heifers. The Longview herd consignment includes six bulls and two heifers, one safe in calf and the other open.

Continues Treatment

LONACONING — Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Hohing Sr. will be at the Wilmer Eye Clinic in Baltimore today where Mrs. Hohing will receive treatment as a follow-up to the eye surgery she underwent in November at the clinic. She will return home Wednesday.

W. Va. Strip Mining Law Makes Changes

Landowner Faces Responsibilities

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — Many changes of importance to both surface mine operators and landowners or owners of surface mining rights are included in West Virginia's new strip mining law, according to A. H. VanLandingham, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at West Virginia University.

The new law became effective upon its passage by the West Virginia Legislature on March 13, 1959.

Under the old law, the operator was held responsible for obtaining a permit. Under the new law, the operator and the landowner are both held responsible when any land or additional acreage is stripped and not covered by a permit. Dr. VanLandingham cited. To obtain a permit, the operator must give a performance bond to insure the reclamation of stripped areas. Both the landowner and the operator stand to profit from an operation.

Another very important change in the law has to do with the renewal of permits. Under the old law, a permit, once issued, was active until the stripping was completed, the reclamation work done, and the bond released. This system permitted areas to remain unclaimed for long periods after it might appear that the work had been completed. Under the new law, a permit is issued for a period of one year from the date of issuance, but can be extended upon written request and by the payment of $50 for each succeeding year.

After the mining operation is completed or abandoned, the operator is required to (1) cover the face of the coal and as far as practicable bury all roof coal and pyrite shale; (2) seal off with an earth fill any break-through to underground workings in the coal; (3) drain all the surface involved in the mining operation and provide such outlets as may be necessary to conduct storm and seepage waters from such surface to a permanent stream or stream bed with as little erosion as possible; (4) remove all metal, lumber, and other refuse resulting from the operation; (5) re-grade in an approved manner; and (6) plant trees, shrubs, grasses, or vines upon the land affected in such a manner so as to establish a satisfactory cover on the land.

Bloodmobile Will Visit Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Rev. Laurence Smith, chairman of the Hardy County Chapter, American Red Cross, announces that the bloodmobile will be at the Moose Home January 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The mobile unit was scheduled to be in Moorefield December 13 but was forced by bad roads to cancel that appointment. With the new year, it is hoped that a large number will be present to donate blood.

Capon Valley Bank Declares Dividend

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The directors of the Capon Valley Bank have declared a dividend of four per cent or $4 payable to shareholders on December 31 and of record December 15.

Courtney Tusing, cashier of the institution, reported the dividend was the 67th declared. A dividend of six per cent or $6 was declared in June of this year, making total dividend payments of $10 for the year.

Allegany High Floormen Turn Back Alumni Quint, 60-48

Mervin Pope And Pentoney Get 33 Points

Paymenen Bag 2nd Win; Jayvees Top Oldtown, 45 To 36

Allegany High School's floormen took the Alumni quint into camp in their annual basketball game last night at Campobello by the score of 60-48.

The teams battled to a 26-26 deadlock at halftime but Coach Chester G. Payne's Campers went ahead to stay in the third quarter at the close of which the score was 42-39.

Jerry Pentoney and Melvin Pope sparked the Allegany offensive with 17 and 16 tallies, respectively, while Wayne Shook contributed 10 tallies as the Campers posted their second win in as many starts.

Pentoney, Pope and Shook accounted for 16 of the winners' 20 field goals. The Campers converted 20 of 28 free throws.

The Alumni, paced by Jack Cook, of the Washington College (Chestertown) varsity squad, who garnered 12 points, tied Allegany in field goals at 20 but lost out at the charity line where they meshed 8 of 13 tosses.

Allegany's next engagement is with South Hagerstown High School's Rebels here Wednesday night. The Campers play at Keyser High School Friday.

In the opening game of last night's doubleheader, Allegany's junior varsity downed Oldtown High School's varsity quint, 45 to 36.

Robinson with a 9-for-9 performance at the foul line and four field goals headed the winners with 17 markers. Bell was runner-up with seven baskets and 14 points.

Dallas Hangersberger led Oldtown in scoring with five goals and 13 points.

The loss was the fifth against a single victory for Oldtown this season.

Boston Celtics Increase Lead

Beat Philadelphia Warriors, 119-115

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Celtics, leading throughout, outpointed the Philadelphia Warriors, 119-115, Monday night to pull two games in front in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division race Monday night.

Tommy Heinsohn and Sam Jones shared the winners' scoring honors with 25 points each while Wilt Chamberlain was game top scorer with 30. Philadelphia converted only 35 of 53 free throws.

Chamberlain was furthest off the mark with only six of 15 attempts.

Jones, starting in place of ailing Bill Sharman, registered 11 points and directed the Celtics to a 36-28 opening quarter lead. Chamberlain scored 10 points and grabbed 11 rebounds in the second session but Boston's Gene Conley equalled Wilt's performance as the Celtics took a 10-point lead at intermission.

National Grid Loop To Draft 280 Collegians

Vikings Will Get First Choice Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Football League drafts 280 college players Tuesday with the new Minnesota Vikings getting the first choice from the annual grabbag.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle is scheduled to open the meeting at 10 a.m. General Manager Bert Rose selects for the Vikings, the league's 14th team, slated to operate in 1961 for the first time.

Following Minnesota, clubs draft in reverse order of their 1960 final standings—from last to first. Three clubs—Baltimore, San Francisco and Cleveland—will get two players in the first of the 20 rounds as the result of prior trades in which they acquired draft choices for players.

Baltimore gets New York's first right, San Francisco has Pittsburgh's and Cleveland takes Detroit's.

Here is how they'll pick:

Minnesota, Dallas, Washington, Los Angeles, a tie between Pittsburgh and Chicago, Baltimore, St. Louis, a tie between Detroit and San Francisco, New York.

Then come Green Bay, Western Division champs; Cleveland, which had a better record, although it was only a runnerup for Eastern Division honors, and the Philadelphia Eagles, the league champions.

In Case Of Ties

In cases of ties, the teams toss a coin for first round choice and then alternate in succeeding call-overs. All college players whose original class has graduated—or will in 1961—are eligible for the draft.

Just who will be the No. 1 player selected is up in the air this year, since Minnesota would appear to need everything. It would be natural for a new club to grab a good passing quarterback, but there have been reports the Vikings will get the veteran George Shaw from the Giants. If so, Rose may dig in the bag for a strong linebacker, another vital commodity.

Shrine Game Player Suffers Knee Injury

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—The East Shrine squad Monday suffered its first casualty as it drilled for Saturday's East-West game in San Francisco.

Offensive guard Ron Maltony, Purdue, suffered a knee injury during a passing scrimmage. He was taken to a local hospital for X-rays and spent the night in the University of Santa Clara infirmary.

Extent of the injury will be determined Tuesday and if he cannot play Saturday, Myron Pottios, of Notre Dame will be called on for iron-man duties on both the offensive and defensive teams.

Kansas State Cops Opener In Tourney

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Larry Comley scored 23 points and Pat McKenzie grabbed 17 rebounds tonight to lead the Kansas State Wildcats to a 62-56 victory over the Oklahoma State Cowboys in the first round of the Big Eight Conference pre-season basketball tournament.

Allegany High Floormen Turn Back Alumni Quint, 60-48

Mervin Pope And Pentoney Get 33 Points

Paymen Bag 2nd Win; Jayvees Top Oldtown, 45 To 36

Allegany High School's floormen took the Alumni quint into camp in their annual basketball game last night at Campobello by the score of 60-48.

The teams battled to a 26-26 deadlock at halftime but Coach Chester G. Payne's Campers went ahead to stay in the third quarter at the close of which the score was 42-39.

Jerry Pentoney and Melvin Pope sparked the Allegany offensive with 17 and 16 tallies, respectively, while Wayne Shook contributed 10 tallies as the Campers posted their second win in as many starts.

Pentoney, Pope and Shook accounted for 16 of the winners' 20 field goals. The Campers converted 20 of 28 free throws.

The Alumni, paced by Jack Cook, of the Washington College (Chestertown) varsity squad, who garnered 12 points, tied Allegany in field goals at 20 but lost out at the charity line where they meshed 8 of 13 tosses.

Allegany's next engagement is with South Hagerstown High School's Rebels here Wednesday night. The Campers play at Keyser High School Friday.

In the opening game of last night's doubleheader, Allegany's junior varsity downed Oldtown High School's varsity quint, 45 to 36.

Robinson with a 9-for-9 performance at the foul line and four field goals headed the winners with 17 markers. Bell was runner-up with seven baskets and 14 points.

Dallas Hansberger led Oldtown in scoring with five goals and 13 points.

The loss was the fifth against a single victory for Oldtown this season.

Boston Celtics Increase Lead

Beat Philadelphia Warriors, 119-115

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Celtics, leading throughout, outpointed the Philadelphia Warriors, 119-115, Monday night to pull two games in front in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division race Monday night.

Tommy Heinsohn and Sam Jones shared the winners' scoring honors with 25 points each while Wilt Chamberlain was game top scorer with 30. Philadelphia converted only 33 of 53 free throws.

Chamberlain was furthest off the mark with only six of 15 attempts.

Jones, starting in place of ailing Bill Sharman, registered 11 points and directed the Celtics to a 36-28 opening quarter lead.

Chamberlain scored 10 points and grabbed 11 rebounds in the second session but Boston's Gene Conley equalled Wilt's performance as the Celtics took a 10-point lead at intermission.

Philadelphia Beats Packers, 17-13, Captures NFL Title

Eagles Earn First Crown Since 1949

Dean's 4th Period TD Climaxes 80-Yard March, Decides Game

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles won the National Football League championship 17-13 over the Green Bay Packers Monday, ripping the length of the field on nine plays for a winning fourth quarter touchdown scored by rookie Ted Dean.

Trailing 13-10 after Green Bay marched 80 yards on 12 plays for a touchdown on a pass from quarterback Bart Starr to end McGee, rookie Dean led the Eastern Division champions to their first NFL title since 1949.

Dean Sparks Drive

The 210-pound Dean, a former Wichita star who got his big chance when regular fullback Clarence Peaks broke an ankle six weeks ago, returned the Green Bay kickoff 58 yards to the Packers' 40. Then he picked up 15 yards on three running plays—the last of them the five-yard sweep around left end for the touchdown—as quarterback Norman Van Brocklin directed the Eagles to their winning score and a come-from-behind victory.

Immediately after the game, Coach Buck Shaw of the Eagles and Van Brocklin said they were calling it quits. Shaw said he planned to go back to his California home after Tuesday's NFL player draft meeting.

Van Brocklin refused to discuss what he would do. "I've got plenty of time to think about that and I'll talk about that later in the year (1961)," he said.

Both retirements had been long anticipated. Van Brocklin is said to be the best prospect to succeed Shaw as head coach.

Packers Lead Twice
The Western champion Packers twice led in this rugged battle before a sellout crowd of 67,323 and a national television audience.

Paul Hornung, the NFL's scoring champion with 176 points, kicked an early first period field goal from the 20 and another in the second quarter from the 23. Hornung suffered a recurrence of an old shoulder injury in the fourth quarter when he was tackled by Philadelphia's Chuck Bednarik. He came in again only for a conversion and a kick-off.

Behind 6-0, the Eagles, a fumbling, bungling team until then, suddenly caught fire. Van Brocklin, tested veteran of 12 pro football seasons and four previous championship games led them to a 10-6 halftime lead.

It took the Eagles just two plays midway in the second quarter to make things right with the wildly partisan crowd which paid the largest gross gate in NFL championship history.

Score On 35-Yard Pass
Van Brocklin, given almost perfect protective blocking, passed 22 yards to halfback Tommy McDonald then, on the next play, he saw the former Oklahoma star free on the Packers' 5-yard line. He pitched a 35-yard touchdown pass to him.

Bobby Walston, second to Hornung in scoring during the regular season, booted the conversion. Green Bay 3 3 0 7-13 Philadelphia 0 10 0 7-17

Santa Anita Draws 72,000 Opening Day

Record Crowd Sees Ole Fols Triumph

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Ole Fols, an English-bred speedster, survived a claim of foul Monday to preserve a neck victory in the $23,950 Palos Verdes Handicap before the largest opening day crowd in Santa Anita history.

An estimated crowd of 72,000 racing fans had to wait nearly 10 minutes while the stewards viewed movies of the race before ruling that the winner did not bother Henjriam, the second horse, in the stretch run of the six furlong feature. Ole Fols stalemated, Finnegan, was third and T. V. Lark finished fourth in the bulky field of 14 starters.

McCarthy and his trainer, W. B. Finnegan, were starting their second quarter century of racing at Santa Anita when they sent out the entry of Ole Fols and Finnegan to capture two shares of the purse.

Ole Fols, co-holder of the track record for six furlongs of 1:08 4-5, was a full second back of his record in winning Monday 1:09 4-5.

It was when the field rounded off the turn into the stretch that Ole Fols seemed to bear in slightly for Jockey Willie Shoemaker and brushed against Henjriam whose rider, Pete Moreno, lodged the claim of foul.

Henjriam had three-quarters of a length advantage over Finnegan who finished the same margin ahead of T. V. Lark. Ole Fols returned $10.80, $6.20 and $7.00 across the board.

Christmas 'Cap At Tropical Park Won By Eurasia
CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — Eurasia, an 18-1 outsider from the Greentree stable, rallied in the stretch to win the $11,900 Christmas Handicap by almost two lengths Monday at Tropical Park.

The four-year-old gelding made his winning move from fourth place and quickly opened a three-length lead. Herosogala then closed fast from ninth place in the final yards but was unable to catch Eurasia.

Moony finished third, two lengths back of Herosogala in the field of 13 distance runners. Sam Boulmetis rode Eurasia, who was clocked in 1:43 flat and paid $37.60, $14.90, and $8.80 across the board.

Philadelphia Beats Packers, 17-13, Captures NFL Title

Eagles Earn First Crown Since 1949

Dean's 4th Period TD Climaxes 80-Yard March, Decides Game

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles won the National Football League championship 17-13 over the Green Bay Packers Monday, ripping the length of the field on nine plays for a winning fourth quarter touchdown scored by rookie Ted Dean.

Trailing 13-10 after Green Bay marched 80 yards on 12 plays for a touchdown on a pass from quarterback Bart Starr to end Max McGee, rookie Dean led the Eastern Division champions to their first NFL title since 1949.

Dean Sparks Drive

The 210-pound Dean, a former Wichita star who got his big chance when regular fullback Clarence Peaks broke an ankle six weeks ago, returned the Green Bay kickoff 58 yards to the Packers' 40. Then he picked up 15 yards on three running plays—the last of them the five-yard sweep around left end for the touchdown—as quarterback Norman Van Brocklin directed the Eagles to their winning score and a come-from-behind victory.

Immediately after the game, Coach Buck Shaw of the Eagles and Van Brocklin said they were calling it quits. Shaw said he planned to go back to his California home after Tuesday's NFL player draft meeting.

Van Brocklin refused to discuss what he would do. "I've got plenty of time to think about that and I'll talk about that later in the year (1961)," he said.

Both retirements had been long anticipated. Van Brocklin is said to be the best prospect to succeed Shaw as head coach.

Packers Lead Twice

The Western champion Packers twice led in this rugged battle before a sellout crowd of 67,325 and a national television audience.

Paul Hornung, the NFL's scoring champion with 176 points, kicked an early first period field goal from the 20 and another in the second quarter from the 23. Hornung suffered a recurrence of an old shoulder injury in the fourth quarter when he was tackled by Philadelphia's Chuck Bednarik. He came in again only for a conversion and a kick-off.

Behind 6-0, the Eagles, a fumbling, bungling team until then, suddenly caught fire. Van Brocklin, tested veteran of 12 pro football seasons and four previous championship games led them to a 10-6 halftime lead.

It took the Eagles just two plays midway in the second quarter to make things right with the wildly partisan crowd which paid the largest gross game in NFL championship history.

Score On 35-Yard Pass

Van Brocklin, given almost perfect protective blocking, passed 22 yards to halfback Tommy McDonald then, on the next play, he saw the former Oklahoma star free on the Packers' 5-yard line. He pitched a 35-yard touchdown pass to him.

Bobby Walston, second to Hornung in scoring during the regular season, booted the conversion. Green Bay 3 3 0 7-17 Philadelphia 0 10 0 7-17

Santa Anita Draws 72,000 Opening Day

Record Crowd Sees Ole Fols Triumph

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Ole Fols, an English-bred speedster, survived a claim of foul Monday to preserve a neck victory in the $23,950 Palos Verdes Handicap before the largest opening day crowd in Santa Anita history.

An estimated crowd of 72,000 racing fans had to wait nearly 10 minutes while the stewards reviewed movies of the race before ruling that the winner did not bother Henrian, the second horse, in the stretch run of the six furlong feature. Ole Fols, a six-year-old, was third and B. Finnegan, was fourth when they sent out the entry of Ole Fols and Finnegan to capture two shares of the purse.

Ole Fols, co-holder of the track record for six furlongs of 1:09 4-5, was a full second back of his record in winning Monday in 1:09 4-5.

It was when the field rounded off the turn into the stretch that Ole Fols seemed to bear in slightly for Jockey Willie Shoemaker and brushed against Henrian whose rider, Pete Moreno, lodged the claim of foul.

Henrian had three-quarters of a length advantage over Finnegan who finished the same margin ahead of T. V. Lark. Ole Fols returned $10.80, $6.20 and $7.00 across the board.

Christmas 'Cap At Tropical Park Won By Eurasia

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — Eurasia, an 18-1 outsider from the Greentree Stable, rallied in the stretch to win the $11,900 Christmas Handicap by almost two lengths Monday at Tropical Park.

The four-year-old gelding made his winning move from fourth place and quickly opened a three-length lead. Herosozala then closed fast from ninth place in the final yards but was unable to catch Eurasia.

Moony finished third, two lengths back of Herosozala in the field of 13 distance runners. Sam Boulmetis rode Eurasia, who was clocked in 1:43 flat and paid $37.60, $14.90 and $8.80 across the board.

Russian Hockeyists Arrive For U.S. Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — A Russian hockey team is due to arrive in New York Tuesday evening for a five-game tour that will open Dec. 30 at Fargo, N.D., and end Jan. 7 in Madison Square Garden.

The team will play the University of North Dakota at Fargo, Dec. 30 and the University of Minnesota Jan. 2 at Minneapolis. The Russians will play a U.S. national squad Jan. 4-5 at Colorado Springs and the same team Jan. 7 in the Garden.

Warmath Is 49

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Coach of the year Murray Warmath of Minnesota celebrated his 49th birthday Monday with a cake from his team.

A cake inscribed "Happy Birthday, Murray" was presented to the coach of the national football champions at lunch as his players sang the traditional birthday greeting.

Aussie Davis Cuppers Lead Italians, 2-0

Fraser And Laver Score In Sinales; Doubles On Top

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Italians hoped Tuesday that a doubles' victory might trigger the second miracle comeback of the month and enable them to wrest the Davis Cup from Australia.

Down 2-0 after dropping the opening singles' matches to left-handers Neale Fraser and Rod Laver, the Europeans sent Orlando Sirola and Nicola Pietrangeli into the firing line for the doubles point they originally were favored to win.

Play Doubles Next

They faced Fraser and Roy Emerson whom they crushed in straight sets a few weeks ago in the finals of the Victorian championships.

"Comebacks such as we staged against the Americans at Perth are things which one might expect only every four or five years," said Italian Captain Vanni Canale. "But we hope we can make history repeat itself."

The Italians were two down to the Americans in the interzone finals and trailed 3-1 in the fifth and final set of the doubles before launching a rally which astonished the tennis world. Few observers gave them a chance of repeating this against the high-geared Australian team which appears in peak form.

Fraser, Laver Victors

Fraser, Wimbledon champion and the world's top-ranking amateur, got Australia off winging with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 triumph.

Shaw Van Brocklin Retire After Championship Tilt

"This Is It," Eagles' Coach Says; Norm Equally Adamant

By JOHN CLANCY
United Press International

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Head coach Lawrence Buck Shaw and quarterback Norm Van Brocklin — the brains of the arm of the Philadelphia Eagles — insisted through the jubilation of their dressing room that the world championship hadn't changed their retirement plans.

"This is it," the white-thatched coach said between backslaps. "It's time to retire and I'm through."

Van Brocklin was equally adamant about quitting. "I've been telling you guys for the past 12 weeks that this was my last season. Now I'm telling you again, I'm retiring."

Van Brocklin and iron man Chuck Bednarik led the dressing room festivities just as they led the offense and defense on the field.

"World champions, world champions," Van Brocklin cheered as he led the stomping procession into the locker room. "How do you like that boys? You were all great. You all deserved it."

Lombardi Doesn't Alibi

Turning to the newsmen sandwiched among the hulking players, the Dutchman wished them all "as much happiness someday as I have today. It's wonderful."

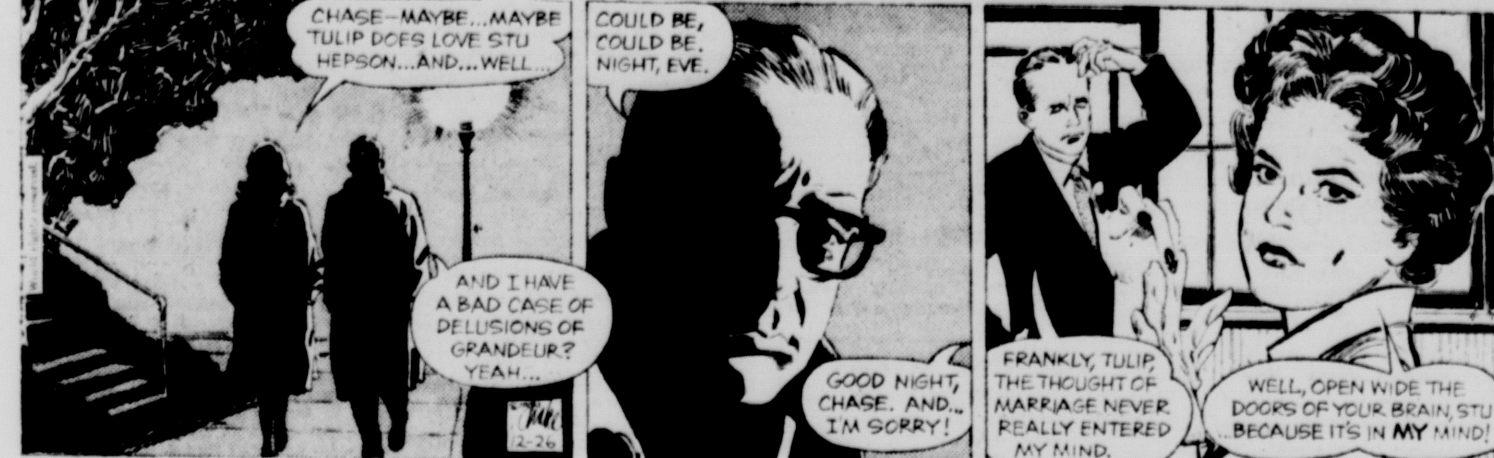

over Sirola who was a mere shadow of the giant who chopped down America's Barry Mackay in the clinching match of the interzone finals.

Then young Laver, loser of both his singles assignments in the 1959 challenge round and a questionable quantity this year, delivered the near-knockout blow by smashing Pietrangeli, Italy's top ace, with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 triumph.

Vince Lombardi, coach of the Green Bay Packers, said "I'm happy for Buck (Shaw). If he's going to retire, it's a nice note to retire on."

Lombardi, holding court in the all-too-quiet Packer dressing room, said "We are not alibiing. We were beat."

Van Brocklin said, "I feel like I'm retiring undefeated. But I know I'm not. I've had plenty of bumps in my time, but this makes it all worth it."

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Scott Miller, Clearville, Pa.; two brothers, Grover Ruby, Breezewood, Pa., and Spencer Ruby, Flintstone.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home.

Drug Industry Will Expand In New Year

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Business prospects for 1961 are the least bullish in three years.

With a further decline in manufacturing forecast for the first part of the new year, no general upward trend in business is likely before summer.

Most government and private economists think 1961 will see an advance over 1960. But it will be a modest one and probably bunched in the last four or five months of the year.

That would mean a further rise in unemployment, which has been creeping up for six months and now is fairly high. By the end of winter a jobless total approaching 6 million is possible. Well above 5 million is a certainty.

See Steel Hike

A happier consequence of the mild business downturn — which actually began last summer — might be moderate price shading on manufactured consumer goods.

But steel industry sources are talking about the inevitability of a hike in selected steel prices. In services—where more and more consumer dollars are spent—economists see no break in the upward price trend.

In its gross outlines the current business situation is similar to that of three years ago. A downturn which began in the summer is likely to persist into the spring. That was the pattern of the 1957-58 recession.

There is, however, one very important difference this year: The slump is milder—much. Even if you don't study the figures you can tell that from the fact that economists are divided about whether the present decline is deep enough to merit the term "recession."

The most comprehensive measure of how business is doing is Gross National Product (GNP for short). It includes spending for all goods and services by everybody—consumers, business, government, foreigners.

Latest available GNP figures are: 1st quarter 1960 $501.3 billion; at yearly rate; 2nd quarter 1960 $505.0 (all-time high) billion; at yearly rate; 3rd quarter 1960 $503.5 billion, at yearly rate.

Experts Forecast Decline

Government economists don't know whether the final three months of 1960 will show an improvement or a dip in GNP. Either way, they say, it will be only a small change from the third quarter.

As for the first half of 1961, the experts are betting on a decline—but a small one. A pessimist suggests GNP may hit a low of $490 billion—a drop of about 2½ percent. A more cautiously optimistic Federal Reserve expert thinks "it won't go much below $500 billion."

Inventories are the biggest single thing holding business down. In steel and other factory goods stockpiles are being worked off. Economists expect inventory liquidation will continue for some months.

The firm "living off the shelf" is buying less from its suppliers.

So production is cramped and workers are laid off.

Economists expect that by summer businessmen will find they have trimmed stocks of goods to a bare minimum and must step up new factory orders.

Dip Was Temporary

Prevailing expert sentiment is that the narrow dip in consumer expenditures of last summer was temporary and that the long-term upward trend will continue.

"If the seasonal slowdown in January and February doesn't shake people too much we may come through fine in the spring," commented a Commerce Department economist. "So far," he added, "it's been a very mild recession."

What disturbs government officials most is that the high jobless levels anticipated for January and February may have spillover effects psychologically and dollar-wise. Labor Department experts say that the usual winter rise in unemployment will boost the number out of work above 5 million—and possibly close to 6 million.

With that many people unemployed retail sales may slip. Other people with jobs may start to worry. If their concern translates into more thrift and less spending, the slump may be self-aggravating. Hopefully, the reopening of outdoor jobs in March and April and a brisk start to the home building season will dispel some of the winter gloom, re-employ some of the laid off and create jobs for some of the 1.25 million new job-seekers coming into the 1961 labor market.

Ease Up On Loans

Home building sagged this year to about 1,300,000 starts, probably because 1959's 1,531,000 non-farm starts was artificially stimulated by government anti-recession actions of 1958. For 1961 optimists forecast 1.325 million housing starts. More restrained forecasts are for an even 1,300,000.

There is widespread agreement that home buyers will have less difficulty getting mortgage loans, autos, refrigerators, washing machines and even enjoy some small declines in borrowing costs. The Federal Reserve has supplied banks with a generous amount of "do" for another year if consumer reserves. Under the administration of President-elect John F. Kennedy it may not be so quick to tighten up once business starts to expand.

Highway and school building construction volume is expected to rise next year. Reversing the narrow decline of 1960, total construction outlays may hit a record $57 billion or more.

Sees Steel "Bust"

In steel, the "bust" of 1960, no improvement is seen for 1961. An industry spokesman, lamely calling 1960 the industry's sixth best year on record, estimated output at 99.3 million net tons and forecast 1961 production at 95-100 million net tons.

Auto men say 1960 was their second best year ever with sales of 6.7 million domestic and foreign cars—a bit under the bullish 7 million forecast a year ago. In 1961 they see sales of 6.5 million units, a decline of about 200,000, half of it in imports. It might be remembered that auto industry forecasts usually are too optimistic.

Investment plans of business indicate the economy will get no help from that sector. A McGraw-Hill survey projects a 3 per cent decline in outlays for expansion and modernization dropping expenditures will continue for some months.

Federal economists will be relieved if the cut is that shallow. McGraw-Hill called the projected 1961 outlays "unexpectedly strong" and explained them this way: "Capacity may be in excess and sales expectations modest, but companies are evidently spurred to continued investment in plant and equipment by (1) the need to cut costs in order to meet the competition both at home and abroad and (2) the market-opening opportunities opened up by the high level of spending on research and product development."

Imports Trail Exports

Exports, up smartly in 1960, ran about $4 billion ahead of imports. It seems unlikely that this favorable trade surplus can be fattened in 1961. Indeed, government officials are concerned lest it shrink, thereby adding to the deficit in the country's balance of international payments.

Government spending will be up at all levels in 1961, probably the most clear-cut upward factor in the entire economic picture. For the calendar year, Business Week magazine foresees a gain of $6.5 billion to a new peak level of $144 billion. But, the magazine added, "the amount of economic stimulation that will be realized from this increase is open to question."

Similar rises occurred in 1959 and 1960. Hence the 1961 increase should not be seen as a new economic force.

It is a truism to say that ultimately, business depends on the consumer. Personal consumption expenditures account for nearly two-thirds of total spending and influence heavily business inventory and investment decisions.

Always Buy Food

Barring a sizable economic depression, consumer spending will be higher in 1961. Statistics show that even in recessions people continue to buy more non-durable goods, especially food, and to spend more for services (partially a result of inflation).

What really counts for industry is retail activity and unemployment.

The retail sales of hard goods—difficultly getting mortgage loans, autos, refrigerators, washing machines and even enjoy some small declines in borrowing costs. The Federal Reserve has supplied banks with a generous amount of "do" for another year if consumer reserves. Under the administration of President-elect John F. Kennedy it may not be so quick to tighten up once business starts to expand.

Highway and school building construction volume is expected to rise next year. Reversing the narrow decline of 1960, total construction outlays may hit a record $57 billion or more.

In steel, the "bust" of 1960, no improvement is seen for 1961. An industry spokesman, lamely calling 1960 the industry's sixth best year on record, estimated output at 99.3 million net tons and forecast 1961 production at 95-100 million net tons.

Auto men say 1960 was their second best year ever with sales of 6.7 million domestic and foreign cars—a bit under the bullish 7 million forecast a year ago. In 1961 they see sales of 6.5 million units, a decline of about 200,000, half of it in imports. It might be remembered that auto industry forecasts usually are too optimistic.

Investment plans of business indicate the economy will get no help from that sector. A McGraw-Hill survey projects a 3 per cent decline in outlays for expansion and modernization dropping expenditures will continue for some months.

Federal economists will be relieved if the cut is that shallow. McGraw-Hill called the projected 1961 outlays "unexpectedly strong" and explained them this way: "Capacity may be in excess and sales expectations modest, but companies are evidently spurred to continued investment in plant and equipment by (1) the need to cut costs in order to meet the competition both at home and abroad and (2) the market-opening opportunities opened up by the high level of spending on research and product development."

Imports Trail Exports

Exports, up smartly in 1960, ran about $4 billion ahead of imports. It seems unlikely that this favorable trade surplus can be fattened in 1961. Indeed, government officials are concerned lest it shrink, thereby adding to the deficit in the country's balance of international payments.

Government spending will be up at all levels in 1961, probably the most clear-cut upward factor in the entire economic picture. For the calendar year, Business Week magazine foresees a gain of $6.5 billion to a new peak level of $144 billion. But, the magazine added, "the amount of economic stimulation that will be realized from this increase is open to question."

Similar rises occurred in 1959 and 1960. Hence the 1961 increase should not be seen as a new economic force.

It is a truism to say that ultimately, business depends on the consumer. Personal consumption expenditures account for nearly two-thirds of total spending and influence heavily business inventory and investment decisions.

Holiday Party Safety Hints

NEW YORK (UPI) — During the holiday party, a good hostess keeps eyes peeled for changes in weather.

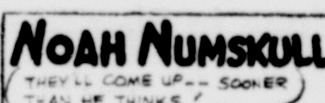

Sudden changes can turn the most familiar street into a slippery death trap, warns the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Police.

The Auxiliary's president, Elva Frederick, of Pittsburgh, Pa., said that a timely warning about changes in the weather can mean the difference between life and death for homeward-bound guests.

Mrs. Frederick also said that a good hostess won't force spirited drinks on guests who like soda pop.

"Keep a supply of fruit juices and soft drinks available for those who prefer them,"

P.S.—Before your guests leave, Mrs. Frederick advises coffee.

Drug Industry Will Expand In New Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—The pharmaceutical industry, historically independent of occasional swings in the economy, will expand its sales and earnings in the new year despite closer government scrutiny of its pricing practices.

Trade sources estimated that volume in 1960 was in the neighborhood of $3 billion. Despite some pressure on profit margins from lower prices, earnings in 1961 are expected to keep pace with sales and in many instances do better.

The Kefauver drug hearings, meanwhile, are not deemed likely to trigger any punitive legislation, at least not immediately.

Depend On Research

Research is the life-blood of the ethical drug industry and one authority estimates that new products probably account for a larger portion of total sales than almost any other business.

As a matter of fact, no business ever faced so high a rate of product obsolescence as the pharmaceutical industry. Since World War II, total medical research expenditures in the U.S. rose from $60 million to more than $400 million in 1959.

Of this figure, manufacturers spent some $200 million or close to 8 per cent of drug sales. This in itself is substantially higher than the average for all manufacturing industry.

The growth in proprietary drugs, those advertised directly to the consumer, has not been as fast as that of ethicals, drugs advertised only to the medical profession.

Cosmetic Sales Rise

Population growth, advertising and promotional efforts generally are still the major ingredients in the expansion of proprietaries, although new product development also is important.

Industry sources note that the cosmetics segment of the business has grown rapidly in recent years. Sales have remained comparable in stability with tobacco and food expenditures and have grown at an average rate of 6 per cent over the past decade.

The industry has been able to broaden its scope in cosmetics through the development of new products and expansion into the men's cosmetics field.

The trend in recent years has been for drug companies to combine with one another to round out their operations in both the ethical and proprietary fields. It is considered the best way to meet an intensifying competition among the many companies in the field.

Economists Disagree About Business Outlook For 1961

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Business prospects for 1961 are the least bullish in three years.

With a further decline in manufacturing forecast for the first part of the new year, no general upward trend in business is likely before summer.

Most government and private economists think 1961 will see an advance over 1960. But it will be a modest one and probably bunched in the last four or five months of the year.

That would mean a further rise in unemployment, which has been creeping up for six months and now is fairly high. By the end of winter a jobless total approaching 6 million is possible. Well above 5 million is a certainty.

See Steel Hike

A happier consequence of the mild business downturn — which actually began last summer — might be moderate price shading on manufactured consumer goods. But steel industry sources are talking about the inevitability of a hike in selected steel prices. In services—where more and more consumer dollars are spent—economists see no break in the upward price trend.

In its gross outlines the current business situation is similar to that of three years ago: A downturn which began in the summer is likely to persist into the spring. That was the pattern of the 1957-58 recession.

There is, however, one very important difference this year: The slump is milder—much. Even if you don't study the figures you can tell that from the fact that economists are divided about whether the present decline is deep enough to merit the term "recession."

The most comprehensive measure of how business is doing is Gross National Product (GNP for short). It includes spending for all goods and services by everybody—consumers, business, government, foreigners.

Latest available GNP figures are: 1st quarter 1960 $501.3 billions, at yearly rate; 2nd quarter 1960 $505.0 (all-time high) billions at yearly rate; 3rd quarter 1960 $503.5 billions, at yearly rate.

Experts Forecast Decline

Government economists don't know whether the final three months of 1960 will show an improvement or a dip in GNP. Either way, they say, it will be only a small change from the third quarter.

As for the first half of 1961, the experts are betting on a decline—but a small one. A pessimist suggests GNP may hit a low of $490 billion—a drop of about 2½ per cent. A more cautiously optimistic Federal Reserve expert thinks "it won't go much below $500 billion."

Inventories are the biggest single thing holding business down. In steel and other factory goods, stockpiles are being worked off. Economists expect inventory liquidation will continue for some months.

The firm "living off the shelf" is buying less from its suppliers. So production is cramped and workers are laid off.

Economists expect that by summer businessmen will find they have trimmed stocks of goods to a bare minimum and must step up new factory orders.

Dip Was Temporary

Prevailing expert sentiment is that the narrow dip in consumer expenditures of last summer was temporary and that the long-term upward trend will continue.

"If the seasonal slowdown in January and February doesn't shake people too much we may come through fine in the spring," commented a Commerce Department economist. "So far," he added, "it's been a very mild recession."

What disturbs government officials most is that the high jobless levels anticipated for January and February may have spillover effects psychologically and dollarwise. Labor Department experts say that the usual winter rise in unemployment will boost the number out of work above 5 million—and possibly close to 6 million.

With that many people unemployed retail sales may slip. Other people with jobs may start to worry. If their concern translates into more thrift and less spending, the slump may be self-aggravating. Hopefully, the reopening of outdoor jobs in March and April and a brisk start to the home building season will dispel some of the winter gloom, re-employ some of the laid off and create jobs for some of the 1.25 million new job-seekers coming into the 1961 labor market.

Ease Up On Loans

Home building sagged this year to about 1,300,000 starts, probably because 1959's 1,531,000 non-farm starts was artificially stimulated by government anti-recession action of 1958. For 1961 optimists goods, especially food, and to see 1,325,000 housing starts. More spend more for services (partially restrained forecasts are for an even 1,300,000.

There is widespread agreement that home buyers will have less difficulty getting mortgage loans, autos, refrigerators, washing machines and even enjoy some small declines in borrowing costs. The Federal Reserve has supplied banks with a generous amount of loan reserves. Under the administration of President-elect John Kennedy it may not be so quick to tighten up once business starts to expand.

Highway and school building construction volume is expected to rise next year. Reversing the narrow decline of 1960, total construction outlays may hit a record $57 billion or more.

Sees Steel "Bust"

In steel, the "bust" of 1960, no improvement is seen for 1961. An industry spokesman, lately calling 1960 the industry's sixth best year on record, estimated output at 99.3 million net tons and forecast 1961 production at 95-100 million net tons.

Auto men say 1960 was their second best year ever with sales of 6.7 million domestic and foreign cars—a bit under the bullish 7 million forecast a year ago. In 1961 they see sales of 6.5 million units, a decline of about 200,000 half of it in imports. It might be remembered that auto industry forecasts usually are too optimistic.

Investment plans of business indicate the economy will get no help from that sector. A McGraw-Hill survey projects a 3 per cent decline in outlays for expansion and modernization dropping expenses down to $35 billion. Federal economists will be relieved if the cut is that shallow.

McGraw-Hill called the projected 1961 outlays "unexpectedly strong" and explained them this way: "Capacity may be in excess and sales expectations modest, but companies are evidently spurred to continued investment in plant and equipment by (1) the need to cut costs in order to meet the competition both at home and abroad and (2) the market-opening opportunities opened up by the high level of spending on research and product development."

Imports Trail Exports

Exports, up smartly in 1960, ran about $4 billion ahead of imports. It seems unlikely that this favorable trade surplus can be fattened in 1961. Indeed, government officials are concerned lest it shrink, thereby adding to the deficit in the country's balance of international payments.

Government spending will be up at all levels in 1961, probably the most clear-cut upward factor in the entire economic picture. For the calendar year, Business Week magazine foresees a gain of $6.5 billion to a new peak level of $144 billion. But, the magazine added "the amount of economic stimulation that will be realized from this increase is open to question."

Similar rises occurred in 1959 and 1960. Hence the 1961 increase should not be seen as a new economic force.

Always Buy Food

Barring a sizable economic depression, consumer spending will be higher in 1961. Statistics show that even in recessions people continue to buy more non-durable goods, especially food, and to see 1,325,000 housing starts. More spend more for services (partially restrained forecasts are for an even 1,300,000.

The Federal Reserve has supplied banks with a generous amount of loan reserves. Under the administration of President-elect John Kennedy it may not be so quick to tighten up once business starts to expand.

It has been in hard goods—consumers' and producers—that the post-war recessions have been centered. That is the sector to watch in 1961.

McCamic Named To Racing Unit

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood Friday announced the appointment of Wellsburg newspaper publisher H. W. McCamic to the West Virginia Racing Commission, succeeding James G. McCure of Wheeling.

A Republican, McCamic, president of the Wellsburg Daily Herald Co. Inc., will serve out the remainder of McCure's term, or until March 1.

McCure was elected a judge of the 1st Judicial Circuit in the Nov. 8 general election.

Approximately 50 per cent of the British regular army is serving overseas.

Fire Damages Trailer In Bowling Green

Blaze Starts While Owners Visit W. Va.

Bowling Green firemen were kept busy over the holiday fighting three fires, the most serious of which seriously damaged a house trailer yesterday morning.

The trailer is owned by Woodrow Annon, Bowling Green, who with his wife and two children was visiting in Elkins, W. Va., during the Christmas holidays.

Chief Allan Deffenbaugh of the Bowling Green Fire Company said the blaze apparently was started by an overheated oil heater.

The fire unit received the alarm about 9:30 a.m. while they were busy fighting a flue fire in another section of Bowling Green. A neighbor spotted the fire and called the fire headquarters, which contacted the fire company by radio at the scene of the other blaze.

Firemen had to break into the locked trailer in order to fight the fire. Chief Deffenbaugh said the fire had a good start by the time the alarm was sounded and nearly everything inside the trailer was burned.

Members of the company notified the sheriff's office here, and authorities contacted the Annon family through police officers in the Elkins area.

It was reported the trailer was covered by insurance.

Just prior to receiving the call to the Annon trailer, the Bowling Green firemen were called to the home of Homer Lowdermilk, Avenue K, to extinguish a flue fire. They said there was no damage to the Lowdermilk residence.

Some 18 men responded to the alarm and several of the men remained at the Lowdermilk home until 11 a.m., while the other firemen went to the Annon trailer.

In another fire in Bowling Green, 16 men answered a call to the home of Norman W. Steele, Roberts Place, at 9 a.m. Christmas morning.

No damage was reported to the home, but a fire in the flue was so hot it burned off vines on the chimney, firemen said.

Negro Adoptive Homes Needed

Calling attention to the critical need for Negro adoptive homes, Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, yesterday revealed that 227 Negro children under the care of private and public social agencies in Maryland are available for adoption but have not yet been placed.

In reviewing a recent survey made by his department, he said that the lack of Negro applicants for Negro children is one of the most important concerns of child welfare agencies in the state.

The survey included data from voluntary child placement agencies and public welfare departments throughout Maryland and was made as part of a cooperative effort to locate adoptive homes for Negro children. It revealed that many of the children awaiting homes are infants, with almost three-fourths of the number being under six years of age.

In releasing the report of this survey Mr. Waxter called attention to the fact that all of the children's agencies in the state are eager to talk with any Negro couple who may be interested in adoption of a child of any age.

NAMED CHAIRMAN — Joseph E. Reeve, Bethesda, who is on the staff of the U.S. Bureau of the Budget, and member of the Montgomery County Library Board, has accepted the chairmanship of the National Library Week observance in Maryland April 16-22. The Allegany County Library will take part in the observance.

Bloomington Native's Son Killed By Car

The five and a half-year-old son of a former resident of Bloomington was killed Christmas Day when he was struck by a car in San Angelo, Texas.

He was Kevin Clark, son of S. Sgt. Clifton Thomas Clark, formerly of Bloomington, and Betty Clark, a native of England.

Full details of the accident were not available yesterday and it is reported an inquest will be held sometime today.

The child was born in England. Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Sharon, and a brother, Charles E. Clark, both at home.

The body will be taken to the Boal Funeral Home in Westernport on Thursday morning.

State Wheat Yields Remain Unchanged

Normal wheat yields for 1961 in Maryland's 23 counties will be identical with those for 1960, according to William L. Dudley, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

That means that Allegany County's normal yield will remain at 19.8 bushels per acre, Garrett County's will be 23.8 bushels again and Washington County's will stand at 24.2 bushels.

The law provides that normal yield for any county shall be the average yield for the 10 years preceding the year in which the normal yield is determined. Because 1961 yields are being established in calendar 1960, the 1950-59 base period will be used again.

Yields range between a low of 17.2 for Anne Arundel County and a high of 27.9 for Harford County.

Patient In Hospital

Lloyd (Rip) Collins, 23 North Mechanic Street, an employee of the Times and Allegany Company, is reported in "good" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Markleysburg Woman Dies As Cars Crash

Double Fatality East Of Uniontown

A 61-year-old Markleysburg, Pa., woman was one of two women killed last night in a two-car collision on U. S. Route 40 about 14 miles east of Uniontown, bringing the Christmas holiday death toll on Pennsylvania roads to at least eight. Three men were injured in the crash.

She was Mrs. Ida Conneway who was riding in a car being operated by her husband, Paul D. Conneway, also 61, who was injured.

Also killed was Tattie Sue Morton of Washington, D.C., who was traveling in a car operated by Martin V. Hughes, 23, of Washington. He was injured. Also hurt was Glenn Lewis, 17, also of Markleysburg.

The double fatality was the first in the western part of the state. Five of the deaths were reported in eastern regions and one at Harrisburg.

Man's, Wife's Cars Are Struck On Icy Street Here

The icy condition of Gephart Drive apparently was the reason for accidents Christmas Day and last week in which a local man and his wife had their automobiles damaged.

On Christmas morning after firemen from West Side received a call to 905 Fayette Street, the pumper rammed into the automobile belonging to Mrs. James G. McFarlane, 708 Gephart Drive. She said the entire front of the car including the motor, fender and hood was demolished.

Last week, according to Mrs. McFarlane, a local bus slid on the icy pavement and hit her husband's car which was parked along the street.

Firettes Honor Adult Advisors

The Teen-Age Firettes of Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company honored their adult advisors recently with a surprise Christmas dinner at the fire hall.

Sharon Gnegy, president of the Firettes, presented gifts to the advisors, who include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gnegy, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mallow.

Mary Rice, chaplain, gave Mrs. Donald Ware a corsage of white roses for her work with the group.

Reports were given by Sharon Gnegy, and by Carol Jo Brunner, vice president; Kathy Ruppert, secretary, and Eileen Donahoe, treasurer.

The party was prepared under supervision of Mrs. Ware and Mrs. George Donahoe, with all members of the Firettes helping.

A dance for the 60 persons attending followed the dinner.

To Meet Tonight

The LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will meet today at 8 p. m. at the fire hall.

Workmen To Tear Down Building

Workmen are pictured as they started the job of tearing down the building at 420 North Centre Street to provide parking facilities at the new home next door of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO. Steilman Flanagan, who will raze the building, obtained a permit for the destruction of the building last week at the City Hall. Removal of this structure and another building back of the textile workers' hall will provide a total of 20 spaces for off-street parking there.

Two Youths Nabbed In Theft Here

Two local teen-age youths were arrested yesterday morning in connection with the theft of $35 from a man who lives on Pulaski Street.

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van said the youths, who were released in the custody of their parents, will be given a hearing this morning in Juvenile Court.

A complaint was received from John Alderton of 407 Pulaski Street, who suspected the two youths, aged 15 and 17. They reportedly had carried some groceries, boots, and shotgun shells from Mr. Alderton's house and placed them outside the dwelling, Van said.

Mr. Alderton made a close check of a bedroom and found that $35 was missing. Capt. Van said that all but a dollar of the money was recovered. He and Detective Thomas J. See questioned the youths, and said they admitted taking the money.

Children To Be Feted At Kiwanis Dinner

The 44 boys and girls who attended Sunshine Camp last June and July will be guests of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club during its dinner meeting on Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA. Dr. John J. Robinson, chairman of the Christmas party, said that after being fed and entertained the youngsters will receive several gifts. The Kiwanians sponsor the Sunshine Camp each year.

Disabled Vets, Families Must File Reports

About 11,000 disabled veterans and dependents of 9,000 deceased veterans in Maryland who receive monthly pension payments are being reminded by the Veterans Administration to report their annual income promptly and avoid the risk of having their payments stopped.

Sam Weston, officer in charge of the VA office here, said the VA is mailing to all veterans or widows receiving a pension, a tabulating card upon which the income report may be made.

Pensions cease under the old pension law if the income of a single individual exceeds $1,400 or $2,700 if the recipient has dependents.

Under the new law, said Weston, pensions will cease if the income of a single individual exceeds $1,800 or $3,000 if the pensioner has dependents. The amount of pension may be reduced if the annual income rises from one of the lower income brackets—$600 and $1,200 for a single veteran or widow without dependents, and $1,000 and $2,000 for a veteran or widow with dependents.

Dependents parents who receive dependency and indemnity compensation also receive income questionnaires and their payments are similarly regulated by the amount of their income. Regulations require payment to be stopped if the income report is not returned to the VA within 30 days.

No income questionnaire is sent to veterans or widows who are receiving compensation for service-connected benefits. Those needing assistance in filling out the questionnaire are asked to visit the local VA office, Room 308, Post Office Building, from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday with the exception of holidays.

Average Food Use 1,488 Lbs.

Now that you are still recuperating from the effects of overeating during the Christmas holiday weekend, you might be interested in knowing that food consumption in the United States averaged 1,488 pounds per person during 1960.

That's the estimate of the U.S. Department of Agriculture based on retail weights of all the food products of farms, ranches and fisheries. The daily average is a little more than four pounds of food.

Consumption of dairy products led, with 444 pounds per person—the equivalent of about 250 quarts of milk. Included in this total are fluid milk and all other forms of food made from milk except butter. Butter is included with the fats and oils total.

The fruit and vegetable total, excluding potatoes, was a close second with 409 pounds per person. One hundred and eight pounds of potatoes were consumed in addition.

Consumption estimates are based on the disappearance of food products. The quantity of each group is divided by total population. A hard-working 200-pounder, of course, eats more of the foods than infants, invalids and old people, yet they all count equally inflicting per capita consumption.

LaSalle Reunion Set

The fourth annual reunion of the 1957 graduating class of LaSalle High School will be held tomorrow night on the third floor of the home of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, said Paul J. Stakem, reunion chairman. Joseph Cioni was president of the graduating class.

Forest Industries Major Part Of Garrett Economy

Tree planting and harvesting as well as related industries are a shot in the arm to Garrett County's economy, according to forestry officials who say these activities add up to about a quarter of a million dollars income annually.

In 1960 more than 1,000,000 trees were planted by private landowners in the county, Arthur A. Morrill and Paul R. Mateer Jr., assistant district foresters, report that even now about one-third of the trees allotted for next year have been promised to landowners in the county.

Trees, which for some years have been treated only casually in reckoning current resources in many parts of Western Maryland, are again coming to the fore in figuring out the local economy, the assistant district foresters said.

At a recent session of technical foresters of the Department of Forests and Parks for Western Maryland, District Forester R. Thomas Thayer was asked to give a breakdown of this new economic aspects of trees in the county.

After explaining the depleted forest conditions in many Allegheny upland areas and the shifting market demands which have accounted for a worsening of the local forest economy since World War II, Mr. Thayer said a pickup in tree planting interest in the county was first noted about a decade ago.

Foresters do not claim the whole credit for this upsurge in interest, Mr. Thayer added. Business opportunities such as the new practice of growing trees especially cultivated for the Christmas tree market have helped. Also, public conservation programs help in defraying the costs of labor for clearing land and putting the trees in the ground.

After discussing these matters with local bankers and industrial leaders, Mr. Thayer said he thinks the economic value to the county area as a result of the past 10 years effort could be set up somewhat as follows:

—Value of six million trees delivered, planted and growing on the hillsides of the county estimated at a worth (not cost) of $25 per thousand at present stage of growth as $149,000.

—Income to date, as far as known, from Christmas trees and like sales, $47,000; income to county from agricultural conservation program and like sources by way of sharing landowner planting and other labor costs, $23,000.

—Incidental expenditures for gasoline, cartage, tools equipment, and those of planting, management operations and sales undetermined, but probably in excess of $20,000.

Costain Biography Added To Collection At Library

Among the new biographies added to the collection at the Cumberland Branch of the Allegany County Library, "The Chord of Steel" by Thomas H. Costain is considered outstanding.

Brief sketches on a number of the new books at the library have been prepared by Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

The Costain book is considered a major work of non-fiction created from the author's own memories and those of his family and neighbors and from the records of the Alexander Graham Bell family. Readers everywhere will enjoy the story of Bell's world-changing invention and the shining vision of his eventual life.

Henry Beetle Hough has written one of the most absorbing newspaper novels to appear in recent years. "Lament For A City" describes the decline of a New England city as shown in the career of its newspaper. It has been called "a rattling good newspaper yarn in which you will find dramatic action, humor and human interest."

"A Long Row to Hoe" by Billy C. Clark relates the story of his first 19 years in Catlettsburg, Ky., up to the time he went to the University of Kentucky, the first of his family to have more than a few years of schooling. Here is a story, rich in character and detail, enhanced by anecdote and legend of a boy who outgrew his lowly beginning.

"The Fiercest Heart" by Stuart Cloete describes the series of adventures which befall one Boer group on its journey to the north. Here is a novel of action, romance and courage — a worthy successor to the author's previous best seller "The Turning Wheel."

In her latest publication, "You Learn By Living," Eleanor Roosevelt states that she is merely trying to discover what she has learned from living.

Assembly Faces Wrangle Over Scholarships

Committee Report Not Unanimous

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A second effort to unify Maryland's distribution of its money for college scholarships faces another wrangle in the 1961 General Assembly, starting Jan. 4.

The majority of a Legislative Council committee is recommending a compromise in the wake of failure to come to agreement at the 1960 session.

However, Sens. Samuel W. Barrick, D-Frederick, and Edward O. Weant Jr., D-Carroll, promised dissension. They were members of the committee and filed a report with ideas of their own.

There had been general agreement that the state's college scholarship aid was in a state of chaos and that there should be an attempt to set down some ground rules two years ago.

A committee headed by Del. Blair Lee III, D-Montgomery, offered after exhaustive hearings a 1960 program to introduce some order. Two other bills to provide an additional 800 scholarships were presented at the 1960 session and the whole question was put off for another year.

Compromise Proposals
The compromise approved by a majority of the committee incorporates both the committee's and additional scholarship proposals.

It would provide 2,939 scholarships annually at a cost of $1,554,638. At present, there are 1,527 scholarships costing $1,069,103.

The relatively slight increase in cost for the 1,412 more scholarships would be accomplished by having the state pay only tuition cost. At present, some of the scholarships cover all costs — tuition, room, board, etc.

The proposal would provide 558 scholarships directly to eight private colleges — Hood, Johns Hopkins, Maryland Institute, St. John's, Washington and Western Maryland. This would be 64 less than provided now.

However, recipients of 800 of the new scholarships would be permitted to choose where they want to study — thus probably offsetting the assigned loss to private institutions.

Would Eliminate "Bonuses"
The proposed bill also would eliminate "bonus" scholarship appointments granted legislators at a college in their district in addition to those available to all members of the General Assembly.

The committee decided this was more along the lines of uniformity for which it was appointed.

least the majority felt this way.

Sens. Barrick and Weant felt otherwise.

They thought that legislators from the districts of Hood, Peabody, Washington College, Western Maryland, and the University of Maryland should be given appointments to them in addition to those granted all of the legislators.

They argued this was in line with the proposal to pay only tuition charges for scholarship students.

See Financial Burden
Limiting scholarships to tuition only, they maintained, is going to eliminate students "who cannot meet the financial obligation of room and board at the school and live too far from the school to commute."

"Additional provisions, therefore, should be made to give more opportunities for these students to attend colleges that are near their homes."

"A family can certainly more economically support a student at home than be put to the expense of room and board which is charged by the college."

Sens. Barrick and Weant also opposed creation of 800 more scholarships giving students their choice of institution, and a scholarship board to set policy for all of the state's grants.

They will argue that the new scholarship board entails unnecessary expense. They also will object to the 800 new scholarships "unless we can agree that these scholarships are needed and the state can afford them, in view of the anticipated cost of expanding our state educational facilities."

Howard To Speak At Rotary Meeting

William Howard, a new member of the Cumberland Rotary Club, will give his classification talk at the club's weekly luncheon meeting today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Theodore P. Foote, president of the club, also will speak to the club at the meeting.

Garbage Catches Fire

Firemen from Central station were called to the intersection of Baltimore and Liberty streets early yesterday morning when contents of a garbage truck caught fire. They received the call at 12:29 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Eirich, 117 Independence Street, a son Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Jordan, Bowling Green, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Thomas, LaVale, a daughter Friday.

Students Receive Rings

Blaze Starts While Owners Visit W.Va.

Bowling Green firemen were kept busy over the holiday fighting three fires, the most serious of which seriously damaged a house trailer yesterday morning. The trailer is owned by Woodrow Annon, Bowling Green, who with his wife and two children was visiting in Elkins, W. Va., during the Christmas holidays. Chief Allan Deffinbaugh of the Bowling Green Fire Company said the blaze apparently was started by an overheated oil heater. The fire unit received the alarm about 9:30 a.m. while they were busy fighting a fire in another section of Bowling Green. A neighbor spotted the fire and called the fire headquarters, which contacted the fire company by radio at the scene of the other blaze.

Firemen had to break into the locked trailer in order to fight the fire. Chief Deffinbaugh said the fire had a good start by the time the alarm was sounded and nearly everything inside the trailer was burned.

Members of the company notified the sheriff's office here, and authorities contacted the Annon family through police officers in the Elkins area.

It was reported the trailer was covered by insurance.

Just prior to receiving the call to the Annon trailer, the Bowling Green firemen were called to the home of Homer Lowdermilk, Avenue K, to extinguish a fire. They said there was no damage to the Lowdermilk residence.

Some 18 men responded to the alarm and several of the men remained at the Lowdermilk home until 11 a.m., while the other firemen went to the Annon trailer.

In another fire in Bowling Green, 16 men answered a call to the home of Norman W. Steele, Roberts Place, at 9 a.m. Christmas morning.

No damage was reported to the home, but a fire in the flue was so hot it burned off vines on the chimney, firemen said.

Negro Adoptive Homes Needed

Calling attention to the critical need for Negro adoptive homes, Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, yesterday revealed that 227 Negro children under the care of private and public social agencies in Maryland are available for adoption but have not yet been placed.

In reviewing a recent survey made by his department, he said that the lack of Negro applicants for Negro children is one of the most important concerns of child welfare agencies in the state.

The survey included data from voluntary child placement agencies and public welfare departments throughout Maryland and was made as part of a cooperative effort to locate adoptive homes for Negro children. It revealed that many of the children awaiting homes are infants, with almost three-fourths of the number being under six years of age.

In releasing the report of this survey Mr. Waxter called attention to the fact that all of the children's agencies in the state are eager to talk with any Negro couple who may be interested in adoption of a child of any age.

Smoke Scare Checked

Firemen from Central fire station last night checked a smoke scare on the second floor of 113 South Centre Street. The 85-foot aerial ladder truck and the pumper responded to the call at 5:37 p. m.

Also, public conservation programs with help in defraying the costs of labor for clearing land and putting the trees in the ground.

After discussing these matters with local bankers and industrial leaders, Mr. Thayer said he thinks the economic value to the county area as a result of the past 10 years effort could be set up somewhat as follows:

—Value of six million trees delivered, planted and growing on the hillsides of the county estimated at a worth (not cost) of $25 per thousand at present stage of growth as $149,000.

—Income to date, as far as known, from Christmas trees and like sales, $47,000; income to county from agricultural conservation program and like sources by way of sharing landowner planting and other labor costs, $23,000.

—Incidental expenditures for gasoline, cartage, tools equipment, and those of planting, management operations and sales undetermined, but probably in excess of $20,000.

Consumption of dairy products led, with 444 pounds per person—the equivalent of about 250 quarts of milk. Included in this total are fluid milk and all other forms of food made from milk except butter. Butter is included with the fats and oils total.

Costain Biography Added To Collection At Library

Among the new biographies added to the collection at the Cumberland Branch of the Allegany County Library, "The Chord of Steel" by Thomas H. Costain is considered outstanding.

Brief sketches on a number of the new books at the library have been prepared by Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

The Costain book is considered a major work of non-fiction created from the author's own memories and those of his family and neighbors and from the records of the Alexander Graham Bell family. Readers everywhere will enjoy the story of Bell's world-changing invention and the shining vision of his eventual life. Henry Beetle Hough has written one of the most absorbing newspaper novels to appear in recent years, "Lament For A City" describes the decline of a New England city as shown in the career of its newspaper. Assembly Faces Wrangle Over Scholarships

Committee Report Not Unanimous

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A second effort to unify Maryland's distribution of its money for college scholarships faces another wrangle in the 1961 General Assembly, starting Jan. 4.

The majority of a Legislative Council committee is recommending a compromise in the wake of failure to come to agreement at the 1960 session.

However, Sens. Samuel W. Barick, D-Frederick, and Edward O. Weant Jr., D-Carroll, promised dissension. They were members of the committee and filed a report with ideas of their own.

There had been general agreement that the state's college scholarship aid was in a state of chaos and that there should be an attempt to set down some ground rules two years ago.

A committee headed by Del. Blair Lee III, D-Montgomery, offered after exhaustive hearings a 1960 program to introduce some order. Two other bills to provide an additional 800 scholarships were presented at the 1960 session and the whole question was put off for another year.

Compromise Proposals The compromise approved by a majority of the committee incorporates both the committee's and additional scholarship proposals.

It would provide 2,939 scholarships annually at a cost of $1,554,628. At present, there are 1,527 scholarships costing $1,069,103.

The relatively slight increase in cost for the 1,412 more scholarships would be accomplished by having the state pay only tuition cost. At present, some of the scholarships cover all costs — tuition, room, board, etc.

The proposal would provide 538 scholarships directly to eight private colleges — Hood, Johns Hopkins, Maryland Institute, St. John's, Washington and Western Maryland. This would be 64 less than provided now.

However, recipients of 800 of the new scholarships would be permitted to choose where they want to study — thus probably offsetting the assigned loss to private institutions.

Would Eliminate "Bonuses" The proposed bill also would eliminate "bonus" scholarship appointments granted legislators at a college in their district in addition to those available to all members of the General Assembly.

The committee decided this was more along the lines of uniformity for which it was appointed. At least the majority felt this way.

Sens. Barick and Weant felt otherwise.

They thought that legislators from the districts of Hood, Peabody, Washington College, Western Maryland, and the University of Maryland should be given appointments to them in addition to those granted all of the legislators.

They argued this was in line with the proposal to pay only tuition charges for scholarship students.

See Financial Burden Limiting scholarships to tuition only, they maintained, is going to eliminate students "who cannot meet the financial obligation of room and board at the school and live too far from the school to commute."

"Additional provisions, therefore, should be made to give more opportunities for these students to attend colleges that are near their homes."

"A family can certainly more economically support a student at home than be put to the expense of room and board which is charged by the college."

Sens. Barick and Weant also opposed creation of 800 more scholarships giving students their choice of institution, and a scholarship board to set policy for all of the state's grants.

They will argue that the new scholarship board entails unnecessary expense. They also will object to the 800 new scholarships "unless we can agree that these scholarships are needed and the state can afford them, in view of the anticipated cost of expanding our state educational facilities."
